The Horse and the Convention
Beware the Long, Long Trail
Poor Old Guard—Must Swallow What It Hates

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1920.

Chicago, June 10—At the corner of Madison street and Fifth avenue, in this big town, a heavy policeman sits on a big horse through the hot hours of traffic rush, directing traffic. You can see that the four-legged animal, biting his bit in slow meditation, never asks himself why the policeman doesn't get down and stand on the ground.

Toward the south, nearer the stockyards, the convention sat for a while, placid and calm, with a big steam roller sitting on its back. You could see that this Republican gathering never asked itself why the machine didn't get down.

It is used to having a machine sitting on it.

That convention tried to sing "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," and couldn't. But it can say "thy will be done," and it does.

Sometimes, however, horses and conventions run away and you may see something happen tomorrow or next day when Borah and others begin.

Some gentle goose tried to offer Johnson the support of everybody for Vice-President, if he would only be harmonious.

It was like telling a little boy who wants a ticket to the circus that you will let him visit his grandmother's grave instead. Johnson made it clear that he is not that kind of a little boy. He even gave a public interview declaring that he was out for the presidential nomination to the finish. To that may be added, more positively than ever, that he is out beyond the finish. If he is not nominated when this convention ends he will be nominated afterwards.

Some of the biggest bosses know this, and today for the first time it seems that the most intelligent of them realize that they have got to take Johnson whether they like him or not or put up a man to be beaten by Johnson's independent ticket.

Senator Penrose's brief statement, sent out late last night, indicates that the able Pennsylvania leader is not too sick to know the real situation. The statement clearly means that while he will go with Sproul, the candidate of his State, as far as State loyalty requires, he knows that there exists menaces that might destroy the Republican party should it refuse to do what the people want, AND NOMINATE JOHNSON.

The average delegate and the average citizen know nothing. They are like flies buzzing back and forth in a moving railroad train. Not only do they ignore the destination of the train, they don't even know that it is moving.

But occasionally you come across a man that deals on confidential terms with the insiders. Such as Levy Mayer, whose law office has for clients as many great corporations as the ordinary school ma'am has pupils. Naturally he was an original Wood man. More than a year ago he was telling this writer what a wonderful President Wood would make. Locally he was a most original and enthusiastic Lowden man.

But he knows politics and knows the plans of men that pay big prices for his legal advice. If any one of those men said to him tonight, "Levy, I think I will bet a million against Johnson, what do you say?" Levy Mayer would reply, "I say you will lose your money."

Senator Penrose in the cautious language chosen for his announcement says "that he recognizes the weighty consideration of a general character that prevails at the convention at Chicago."

By this he means that, although he would like to have Sproul, who is his local Governor, and next to Sproul would like Knox, who is his local Senator, he knows well that there is a real band wagon already in motion and that old-fashioned Republicans if they want to ride in 1920 instead of walking again as they did in 1912 and 1916, must get aboard, whether they like Johnson, the driver, or not.

When the convention started a husky "cheer leader," gesticulating violently, got the audience to singing "There's a Long, Long Trail A-Winding."

JOHNSON WILL BE THE NEXT PRESIDENT, and he will probably be the regular Republican nominee.

Fortunately for the size of the vote that will be his, it has been made clear to the people that the Republican machine, when it does take him, will have taken him against the grain because public opinion forced his nomination. He will be nominated not because the old guard of plutocracy hate him less, but hate that long, long trail of 1912 more.

JOHNSON WILL BE ELECTED.

ENDS LIFE WITH GUN IN CAGE OF TELLER

Miss Edna F. Merriman, 20, Kills Herself for No Apparent Reason

Miss Edna Merriam, twenty-year-old employe of the Everett Trust Company, who returned to work yesterday after an illness of several months, committed suicide today by shooting herself through the heart in the Glendale branch of the bank.

The young woman, who had been transferred at her own request from the main office in Everett square, went to the bank some time before the opening hour and killed herself with a revolver kept in the teller's cage.

According to Miss Merriam's parents, who live on Fairmount street, Malden, and the trust company officials, she was in the best of spirits, and no reason was known for her act.

The shooting took place while the janitor was sweeping the sidewalk in front of the bank, and the manager, Ralph P. Roberts, was breakfasting a short distance away.

Last March Miss Merriman was stricken with appendicitis and was taken to the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital in Boston, where she was operated on. The young woman was not released from the hospital until a few days ago.

Yesterday she reported to Treasurer Leon P. Horton at the Everett Trust Company and declared that she was glad to get back to the bank.

"We are glad to have you back," Mr. Horton replied. He then asked Miss Merriman if she had fully recovered and felt strong enough to resume work.

The young woman assured him that

LULL IN BATTLE OF LONG ISLAND

O'Brien Goes to Court to Get Direct Orders for Removal of Dr. Donlan

There was a lull in the "Battle of Long Island" today while Penal Institutions Commissioner Thomas C. O'Brien went to the East Boston Court for reinforcements.

Mr. O'Brien made formal application for a court order for the removal of the furniture of Dr. Charles E. Donlan, superintendent of the hospital.

"They shall not pass" was still the slogan of Dr. Donlan, ousted by the City Council, but still sticking to his post.

As Mr. O'Brien had promised to descend in force upon the island today and undertake the routing of the Donlan furniture by force of arms, his appeal to the courts was halted as a partial surrender to the besieged Donlan.

Meantime John J. Ryan, regularly accredited superintendent by will of the City Council, continues to function at the island and still live in amity with both sides.

FRIENDS OF LOST MAN ROUSED

Charge Police Laxity in Hunt for H. W. Peckham of Medford

Metropolitan Park and local police were today charged with negligence in not searching for Herbert W. Peckham, who has been missing from his home at No. 5 Cudworth street, Medford, for two days.

Friends and relatives declared that with Mrs. Peckham on the verge of a nervous breakdown from worry, the officers were making no organized ecort to locate the man whose abandoned car was found at the edge of Spot Pond in the Fellsway on Tuesday.

They believe he may have become temporarily demented and wandered into the woods of the Fellsway or thrown himself into the pond.

They admit he may be fleeing financial obligations and that the abandoned car was only a ruse. W. W. Partridge, owner of the National Garage on Corey street, Everett, where Peckham had been employed as an automobile salesman, said today he had learned that Peckham was at least $2,000 in debt. Mrs. Peckham said her husband had appeared worried and financial difficulties were the only reason she could ascribe for that.

WIFE AND 3 CHILDREN.

There are three children, the oldest twelve years of age, and Mrs. Peckham said she was left with only a few dollars. Those who know him said Peckham would not abandon his family in that condition.

The last heard from him was Tuesday noon, when he told Mrs. Peckham by telephone he was in Boston and returning home. The car at Spot Pond, containing some household supplies, was discovered by the metropolitan police about 2 p. m. that day. Peckham had left home as usual Tuesday morning, but did not report at the garage in Everett.

DEMAND FURTHER SEARCH.

"We believe a more thorough search of the Fellsway should be made," his employer said.

"Since we last saw Peckham I have learned from the Everett Trust Company that a note of his there was overdue and have heard of other obligations which will amount to $2,000 at least. His accounts with the firm were all right, but he owed me money personally. I have learned that while connected with us, he was also conducting a second-hand car business on the side. That was what he gave as his reasons for borrowing money from the banks and other debtors."

Peckham, forty-five years old, came to the National Garage from New York State about two years ago.

Lodge Defies "Mild Reservationists"

By International News Service.

Chicago, June 10. — Senator Lodge, chairman of the convention, swung openly today behind the fight to prevent a provision for ratification of the peace trety with "proper reservations" advocated by the "mild reservationists" from being included in the League of Nations plank.

Senator Lodge, who as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, led the fight in the Senate against ratification without reservations informed Senators Kellogg of Minnesota, and Lenroot of Wisconsin, leaders of the "Mild Reservationists," that he would help "flatten them out" on the convention floor if they persisted in their stand for ratification.

his bed, under the care of a physician and on the brink of a nervous breakdown.

DENIES SUICIDE ATTEMPT.

Today his son, Alvah Sanborn, denied rumors to the effect that his father recently attempted to commit suicide.

Neighbors and friends of Sanborn say that it was common knowledge that the treasurer of the order was speculating in the stock market. They believe he was caught when Baldwin Locomotive and General Motors fell in the recent stock market slump.

Supreme Secretary Frye says that no legal steps are probable until officers have had a conference with Sanborn.

Attorneys for the order and for the surety companies which had bonds for Sanborn, have conferred, and Secretary Frye said that legal action "would necessarily have to be taken." He said that it was quite likely that the brokerage houses, with whom Sanborn pledged $51,000 bonds owned by the order as collateral, would take legal steps.

ALL LOSSES COVERED.

"We have been told by Sanborn's son," said Frye, "where the bonds were pledged, but we do not know what has become of some $58,000 in cash. We are certain we can recover the bonds from the brokerage houses. There is no cause for alarm by policyholders, because all losses are covered by surety companies and our surplus in Boston banks to meet whatever demands may be made."

Following an audit of Sanborn's books, the Supreme Council ordered his resignation, according to Secretary Frye. A point that is baffling the investigators is how the shortage escaped the notice of an audit of the books last April, in which Sanborn was given a clean bill.

KILLS HERSELF IN EVERETT BANK

she felt all right, but requested a temporary transfer to the Glendale square branch, where the work is lighter. This was granted and Miss Merriman reported to Manager Roberts at the branch.

Returning to her home last night, the girl appeared to be happy, according to her father, and expressed much satisfaction over resuming her work. She arose early today, and left the house, arriving at the branch of the trust company at 7:40.

Miss Merriman was admitted to the bank by the janitor, as the branch did not open until 9 o'clock, although the employes arrived at 8.

Mr. Roberts arrived a short time later, and after exchanging a few words with Miss Merriam, stepped out to get his breakfast. The janitor then went out to sweep the sidewalk, leaving the girl alone in the bank.

Fifteen minutes later Roberts returned and found the body of the young woman on the floor behind the counter in the teller's cage. A 38-calibre revolver, which had been kept in the cash drawer, was lying beside her, and blood was flowing from a wound in her left side.

Physicians were summoned, who pronounced her dead. The revolver had been held so close to the body that Miss Merriman's clothing was scorched, and the sound of the explosion was muffled so that the janitor had failed to hear it.

ATTENDED THE "MOVIES."

The dead girl was a graduate of the Lincoln Grammar School in Everett and the Everett High School, class of 1918. She went to work in the bank at first as a bookkeeper shortly before her graduation.

Miss Merriman was the oldest of the three children of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Merriman, having a sister and young brother. Her father is a carpenter and builder, and the family resided in Everett before moving to Malden a few years ago. They originally lived in Harpswell, Me.

According to Mr. Merriman, Edna attended the "movies" with her mother last night and showed no evidences of depression or melancholy. She "kept company" with a Malden young man, but was not engaged to marry him, it was said.

GIBBONS PRAYS FOR HARMONY

Cardinal Opens Convention With Plea for Wisdom and Discretion

Chicago, June 10.—Following is the prayer of Cardinal Gibbons at the Republican national convention today:

"We pray Thee, O God of might, wisdom and justice, through Whom authority is rightly administered, laws are enacted and judgment decreed, vouchsafe to inspire Thy servants, the citizens of America, to elect a chief magistrate whose administration will be conducted in righteousness and be eminently useful to Thy people over whom he shall preside by encouraging due respect for virtue and religion, by a faithful execution of the laws in justice and mercy and by restraining vice and immorality.

"May Thy people always realize the inspired truth that righteousness exalteth a nation, but that sin maketh a people miserable. May they be intimately persuaded that if our nation is to be perpetuated our government must rest, not on formidable standing armies, not on dreadnoughts, for the race is not to the swift nor the battle to the strong.

"May they be persuaded that our government must rest upon the eternal principles of truth, justice and righteousness; on downright honesty in our dealings with foreign nations, and on the devout recognition of an overruling Providence, who has created all things by His power, governs all things by His wisdom, and whose eternal vigilance watches over the affairs of nations and of men, and without whom not even a bird can fall to the ground. Unless the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it. Unless the Lord keep the city, he watcheth in vain that keepeth it.

"Grant, O Lord, that the administration of the new chief magistrate may redound to the spiritual and material welfare of the Commonwealth; to the suppression of sedition and anarchy and to the strength and perpetuity of our civil and political institutions.

"I have been, O Lord, in my day a personal and living witness of the many tremendous upheavals which threatened to rend the nation asunder, from the inauguration of Thy servant, Abraham Lincoln, even unto this day. But Thou hast saved us in the past by Thy almighty power, and I have an abiding confidence that Thou wilt deal graciously with us in every future emergency.

"Grant that the proceedings of this convention may be marked by wisdom, discretion, concord, harmony and mutual forbearance worthy of an enlightened and patriotic body of American citizens."

THREE ARRESTED AFTER UPSETTING OF AUTO

The mystery surrounding the finding of a bloodstained touring car, smashed and overturned in the Weir river, near Deacon Ned Bridge, on the main road between Hingham and Cohasset, early today, was solved by the arrest of three badly bruised men by Patrolman George W. Fay at Quincy Point.

The men gave the names of Rudolph McIntyre of Gardner street, Allston; R. X. Tuttle of Garfield avenue, Boston, a lawyer, and Clifford S. Cox of Belvidere street, Back Bay. They were held by the Quincy police, charged with drunkenness.

The car, according to the police, is registered under the name of Loretta U. Cottle of No. 99 Garfield avenue, West Roxbury, and bore the registration number 178,220.

Following arraignment of the men in the Quincy Court, Chief James will charge them with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

$100,000 CLAIM ENTERED IN BANKRUPTCY CASE

Morris Friedman of Detroit filed a petition today in United States District Court in the bankruptcy case of J. D. Crowley & Co., State street brokers, to reclaim securities valued at $100,000. Petition says that Friedman lent the firm four notes of $10,000 each and $60,000 worth of diamonds to be pledged with the Reliant Leasing Company of New York for a loan of $40,000. Friedman claims that the loan has never been paid.

The Month of Brides—
Roses—and Furniture

JUNE—with its sunshine, its flowers, and its promise of perpetual honeymoons—is the favored month for weddings.

Often a young man saves to furnish a home until the glamor of love rubs off—and he imagines married life will be drudgery instead of a happy partnership.

It was for just such young men that Moller's was established—men earning $30, $40, $50, or more a week—giving them beautiful furniture to select from and the credit they're entitled to.

Moller's credit system is the only one of its kind we know of—you buy at prices guaranteed to be lower than those at any Boston store—pay a small amount down and the balance in convenient weekly or monthly payments. And you are not charged one cent of interest.

Think what this means to the couple who are ready for a home, yet are afraid to invest all their savings in furniture. And think what it means to pay less at Moller's on credit than you pay for cash at any Boston store.

Every bride wants a cedar chest to "keep company" with her "Hope Chest." Fragrant Cedar Chests, so attractive in design, they are ornamental as well as useful—

from $19.00 upward

Tea Wagons—just right for the cozy Sunday night supper for two—

from $12.95 upward

Domestic Science Fireless Cookers from $20.50 to $60.00 ($20.50 cooker one section—$60.00 three sections).

It's worth the little trip to Cambridge just to see the six floors of lovely furniture at Moller's — furniture as handsome as the stateliest home could demand, as well as the simple furniture for "love in a cottage."

"WOMAN RAFFLES" STEALS GEMS TO RECOUP POKER LOSSES

PROMISES TO EXPOSE SOCIETY

Says Other Women Taught Her How to Gamble Away Her Money

New York, June 10.—Described by Assistant District Attorney Hogan as a "female raffles," a woman who first described herself as Mrs. J. C. Gleason and later as Mrs. Andrew A. Brown, after being sent to a cell because she was unable to furnish $15,000 bail demanded in connection with the charge of stealing an $1,800 diamond pin, declared she took the pin to help make good poker losses.

Mrs. Gleason (or Brown) asserted that when arraigned in court she will involve a number of New York society women. She said she was well known in Chicago where she and her first husband had been prominent socially. The $20,000 a year left her by Gleason, she said, was reduced to $10,000 when she remarried.

ACCUSES SOCIETY WOMEN.

"I was introduced to the contemptible game of poker by one of the so-called society women," said Mrs. Gleason.

"When my case comes up there'll be some scandal for the papers. I lost heavily. I never knew an ace from a Jack until I was introduced to the game by them. Everyone has gone against me. My mother, Mrs. Alice Rountree, is well known in Chicago. This will kill her."

Up to the time of her arrest, the prisoner had been living in a five-room apartment in the Hotel Pennsylvania with her mother. The diamond pin was said to have been stolen from Mrs. Chester M. Curry, of No. 229 West 78th street, while a poker game was in progress.

SCREAMS GOING TO CELL.

When Magistrate George W. Simpson held Mrs. Gleason in $15,000 bail, and she was about to be led to a cell, she screamed:

"What am I doing here? Yes, I took the pin and the money, but I've replaced both. What are you holding me for?"

The assistant district attorney said, when told of her interview in her cell:

"These women have got to press this case or it will go to the Grand Jury."

Mr. Hogan told Magistrate Simpson that the woman had taken $240 in cash from the home of a socially prominent woman other than Mrs. Curry, whose name he did not give. The theft of the bar-pin is alleged to have taken place at Mrs. Curry's home on May 14, when a poker party was in progress. The insurance company which had written a theft policy on Mrs. Curry's jewels investigated the matter and sent a detective to the tearoom of the Ambassador Hotel, Atlantic City, where he confronted her with the proofs against her. She then confessed and took him to a suite at the Shelbourne Hotel, where she produced the bar-pin from her mother's trunk.

Suspicion attached to Mrs. Gleason (or Brown) because, while the other women were playing poker, she had gone to the room of her hostess to powder her nose. Later she was seen wearing a bar-pin which resembled the missing pin. The pin consisted of twenty-three diamonds and four pieces of onyx set in platinum.

When questioned after her arraignment, which was made under her original name of Gleason, she said that she had since remarried and that her husband's name is Andrew A. Brown. She said she had married him two years ago, but had since been living apart from him. She asserted that he was well known in Chicago.

Among those who had attended poker parties at which she lost money, Mrs. Gleason-Brown said there were several prominent business men and their wives and the wife of a prominent actor. They met at poker parties twice a week.

Assistant District Attorney Hogan said that he expected that the total thefts of jewelry of which she would be accused would reach $12,000.

JACK GERAGHTY GETS FRENCH FAMILY BONUS

Jack Geraghty received by wire today the bonus donated by the French family of Newport to their former chauffeur for dropping the charges of alienation brought against the mother of Julia French Geraghty, his former wife, who won an absolute divorce from Geraghty last week.

According to Frederic Wingersky, attorney for Geraghty, the sum wired was a large one and closes for once and for all his relations with the French family.

TRUCK BURNS AFTER HITTING TROLLEY CAR

An automobile truck owned and driven by Frederick Packard of Maple street, Milton, was destroyed at Dorchester avenue and Codman street, Dorchester, when it caught fire after colliding with an outward bound Ashmont and Milton trolley car. Firemen were called to extinguish the blaze. Packard was slightly injured and was taken home in a passing automobile.

Deny Their Cooking Is 'Flubdub'

Malden school girls who repudiate charges of extravagance by Mayor Kimball and city council. Left to right—Alice Moller, Elizabeth Hariow, Ruth Swanstrom.

Miss Laura Davis, cooking teacher of Malden, and her pupils are indignant at charges brought that only "flubdub" cookery is taught in Malden High School. They answer charges of extravagance made by Mayor John V. Kimball and Councillor Joseph Hoffman with assertion that economy is one of the chief lessons taught.

Councillor Hoffman, on the other hand, insists that girls are taught to make expensive fancy dishes, who cannot cook a dinner of corned beef and cabbage. And Mayor Kimball says that the cooking classes have delicacies to experiment with which he cannot afford for his own home. The city fathers cite a grocery bill of $231 for twelve days as proof of extravagance.

Miss Davis explains:

"I have many classes in cooking: Three evening courses for teachers and grown girls about to be married, 100 in all; 120 pupils in the high school, and 144 in the grammar school. The average expense for each girl in the evening classes was 15 cents a lesson; in the grammar classes 6 cents, and in the high school 10 cents. Last year, when things were cheaper, the average expense for grammar school girls was 3 cents a lesson. Do you call these figures extravagant?

"When you have 364 girls cooking each week, you must have materials to cook with. I understand that the purchase of 30 cents' worth of lemon drops and a little water cress has been criticised. That was for the yearly exhibition. Offsetting this cost, many of the evening students come from Melrose and have their tuition paid by that town.

"Now take my grammar classes in cooking. Just look at my program: Corn starch puddings, nourishing, but cheap; breads and how to use left-overs; macaroni and cheese, very inexpensive and nourishing; cakes made with fats other than butter; tapioca desserts and dishes made with the efficacious but humble prune.

"The evening classes, where it costs 15 cents per student for cooking materials, are evidently where the criticism centres. Might I respectfully point out that in these classes are girls about to be married, who already know how to cook corned beef? Would it be feasible to charge a small fee for this class? Then we might purchase 30 cents' worth of lemon drops once a year and not be called spendthrift. I am sorry these charges were made, upon insufficient facts. I am sure that investigtion will reveal that we practice rigid economy here, in place of the extravagance with which we have been charged."

WANT ONE CODE FOR MORALS

Suffrage Alliance Sharply Criticizes Nations That Permit Double Standard

Geneva, June 10.—The double moral standard for men and women was severely criticized in the eighth congress of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance today.

"We will strongly oppose the admission to the League of Nations any country that supports regulation of the social evil," declared Miss Alison Neilans, secretary of the British Association for Moral and Social Hygiene. "That is to be one of the planks of our platform. That is why we insist that women shall have equal representation on the executive council of the league."

A resolution was introduced pledging the convention to oppose the following:

Legislation which makes special penalties or special health regulations for women.

$200,000 GOES TO FRANCE

American Field Service Permitted to Transfer Fund to French Universities

Judge De Courcy of the Supreme Court has granted a petition of Henry D. Sleeper and the other officers of the American Field Service, including William K. Vanderbilt and his wife Anne H., of New York city, for leave to transfer a fund of about $100,000 to a French organization known as the American Field Service Fellowships in French Universities.

When the World War began in 1914, students in American universities organized an ambulance corps which was attached to the French army. Many of the students not only drove ambulances, but bought the same with their own money. The total number of ambulances given by Americans was about 1,200, and these together with auxiliary motor cars were manned by 3,000 Americans, of whom nine-tenths were graduates or students in American colleges or universities.

To carry on the work in which these young men engaged more than $1,800,000 was raised by subscription in the United States, and a large part of the balance remaining was derived from the proceeds of exhibition of moving pictures representing the American Field Service in action.

The American Field Service Fellowships in French Universities was organized to promote a better understanding and friendly relations between the people of the United States and France, and also to establish a memorial of the work of the American Field Service in France and of its members who yielded up their lives in the cause. It is proposed to name Fellowships after Americans who died in France.

SON OF FORMER ITALIAN AMBASSADOR TO MARRY

Portland, Me., June 10.—Lincoln MacVeagh, sixty, a retired lawyer of West Chester, Pa., has filed marriage intentions here. He will wed Miss Elizabeth McKeen, many years his junior, and the daughter of James McKeen, who was a distinguished lawyer. She is a native of Nantucket, Mass. MacVeagh's father, the late Wayne MacVeagh, was attorney-general under Garfield, and Ambassador to Italy.

Strike by Buyers Cuts Ice to 35 Cents

An ice strike by wealthy patrons of C. C. Jones, Williamstown ice dealer, forced a reduction in his price from fifty to thirty-five cents per hundred pounds, it was learned today.

The action of the Williamstown householders in refusing to continue paying the former price for ice, occurred almost simultaneously with the announcement of an investigation of the ice situation in Massachusetts by the State Commission on the Necessaries of Life.

In announcing the reduction in his price Jones said he was forced to take this step because his wealthy patrons absolutely refused to pay 50 cents. As they comprised his chief trade, he cut down the price.

At the same time it was learned that Ernest L. Kendall, manager of the ice business of the C. B. Kendall Company of Gardner, acknowledged that his company was receiving $1 per 100 pounds for its product. This price was a raise of 33 per cent, according to Sealer of Weights and Measures Knight of that town.

"I fail to see any justification for raising the rate 33 per cent because a customer does not feel inclined to buy a coupon book," said Mr. Knight. "Five years ago ice was sold in Gardner for 20 cents and the dealers made money."

Mayor William L. Gleason of Brockton has asked the commission to send an investigator to his city, because certain of the ice dealers have advanced the retail price from 50 cents per 100 pounds to 70 cents. The Mayor declared that last Winter's ice harvest was particularly good.

'POCKET VETO' HELD INVALID

Palmer Says Wilson Has Ten Days in Which to Approve Bills

By International News Service.

Washington, June 10.—The so-called pocket veto is invalid and the President has ten days from the date of receipt in which to sign legislation, according to an informal opinion sent to the White House today by Attorney-General Palmer.

The Attorney-General, it was announced, would issue a formal opinion later.

Among measures which may be affected by this decision are the water power bill, the Underwood newsprint resolution and measures repealing all wartime legislation except trading with the enemy and alien property laws. As the water power bill was received on June 1, the President, under the opinion, has until midnight tomorrow, June 11, to sign it.

SCRUBWOMEN ARE QUITTING

Under Prohibition Husbands Work and Wives Need Not Drudge, Says Official

The benefits of prohibition are responsible for scubwomen quitting their jobs, according to a report to the decree fixing the minimum Wage Division of the Department of Labor and Industries. Inspectors of the commission detailed to see if office building managers are living up to the decree fixing the minimum wage of the women at twenty-six cents an hour for day and thirty cents for night work found that many of the scrubwomen are now enjoying prosperity as a result of their husbands being sober and industrious.

An official today stated that now the women are leaving in steadily increasing numbers. Asked for the reason one prominent building manager replied:

"Prohibition, that's the answer. Many women, under the regime of John Barleycorn, were forced to support their families because their husbands were drunkards. The men are now working, and their wives spend their time in the household."

BIG LEGACY FOR MISSING MAN

English Estate and $300,000 Await Leverett Mackenzie, Last Heard of Here

Does anyone know where Leverett Mackenzie, former corporal in the Mounted Rifles of Eastern Canada, is?

An estate in Hastings, England, and $300,000 are awaiting him.

Mckezie was last heard of in Boston, where he came in May, 1919, from St. John, N. B., in search of employment. At that time he was practically penniless.

When Mackenzie arrived overseas with the Mounted Rifles he met Miss Helen Wilbur of Hastings, daughter of a prominent English family. Later he was wounded and the young woman nursed him back to health. Their friendship ripened into love and the English girl promised to marry the corporal as soon as he recovered from his wounds, but she was taken suddenly ill and died while he was still in the hospital.

Miss Wilbur was the only daughter of Captain D. B. Wilbur. His love for his daughter and the knowledge that Corporal Mackenzie was held in high esteem by her brought about a friendship between the two men.

Captain Wilbur was killed in battle near the end of the war. When his will was probated a few weeks ago it was found that he had left all he possessed to the fiance of his dead daughter.

DANIEL SARGENT SAILS IN STEERAGE TO WEDDING

Daniel Sargent, member of a prominent Back Bay family, instructor at Harvard and former captain of rtillery, sailed today in the steerage on the S. S. Rotterdam. He is on his way to Lausanne, Switzerland, where he will marry Miss Louise R. Coolidge, daughter of J. Templeman Coolidge of No. 108 Beacon street. Sargent had reserved first class passage on a steamship sailing July 6. Changes in the wedding plans necessitated his arrival in Switzerland earlier.

WHITE'S ALUMINUM SHOPS

Lower Costs!

To reduce the cost of the manufacture and distribution of merchandise should be the policy of every manufacturer and merchant. To contribute our share to lowering the cost of living we have decided upon a rather drastic step. We are at present maintaining two establishments—our branch store at 21 Winter street, and our main store at 148 Hanover street.

On June 30th we will close our Winter street branch shop and transfer our entire stock of Aluminum Ware and Electrical Appliances to our main store at 148 Hanover street, near Washington street.

We shall be able to handle your patronage at our Hanover street store at a tremendous saving in rent and overhead charges. These lower costs of doing business will enable us to sell you our merchandise at a smaller margin of profit than ever before.

REMOVAL SALE

In order to reduce our stocks as much as possible before moving them to our main store we offer below a partial list of the bargains we have placed on sale. These prices represent a great saving to you and offer a splendid opportunity of stocking up your kitchen with high grade aluminum ware at prices that you will not find again for at least a year and probably longer, as aluminum ware, like iron and steel and all other metals, is very scarce, and there is no doubt that prices will be higher before the Summer is over.

As Wedding Gifts

A wonderful assortment of Electric Percolators, Electric Toasters, Electric Irons, Electric Chafing Dishes, Casseroles and our complete line of "Wear-Ever," "Mirro," "Universal" and other well known brands of aluminum ware, offer you a most unusual selection for gifts that will be sensible and yet attractive.

10% Discount on Our Entire Stock of "Wear-Ever" Aluminum

G. O. P. PLATFORM RECOGNIZES ASPIRATIONS OF IRISH PEOPLE

"The mild reservationists" withdrew their demand for a provision for ratification "with proper reservations," and Senator Borah of Idaho, leader of the "irreconcilables," announced he was satisfied with the plank submitted to him.

The plank agreed upon was drawn up after senators and other Republican leaders had held a series of conferences to prevent a renewal of the Senate controversy over the League of Nations on the convention floor.

Until the agreement was reached, the "mild reservationists," led by Senators Kellogg of Minnesota, and Lenroot of Wisconsin, had been insisting upon the convention going on record in its platform for a ratification of the treaty with "proper reservations."

Elimination of all reference to ratification was forced upon them by the stand taken by Senators Johnson and Borah against it.

The plank agreed to was expected to meet with the speedy approval of the convention when the platform in which it is incorporated is submitted by the resolutions committee.

With the convention leaders supporting the plank, any opposition that might be started to it would be quickly "flattened out," it was predicted.

The "compromise" plank is so worded, it was stated, that anybody the convention may name as its presidential candidate will be able to stand upon it.

Unqualified recognition of Ireland's right to self-determination will be a part of the Republican national platform if the report of the special steering committee on resolutions is accepted.

The freedom-for-Ireland resolve follows:

"That the people of Ireland have the right to determine, without outside interference, their own governmental institutions and their relations with other peoples."

ALLEN PLANK DEFEATED.

Defeat of Governor Allen's industrial court plank, which was forecast yesterday, was accomplished in the steering committee, but the plank adopted, on the other hand, is not so broad as that demanded by Samuel Gompers and the American Federation of Labor in the hearing before the committee.

As regards the railroads and public utilities, the plank urges the establishment of a tribunal to investigate and make decisions, to prevent tying up service. The decision of these tribunals should be "morally, but not legally" binding. Tribunals should refuse to accept jurisdiction except for investigating purposes, so long as service is interrupted, or men are on strike.

In regard to Mexico, it seemed pretty certain the steering committee would get together on a plank which practically would indorse the report of the Fall investigating committee, which recommends the policing of Mexico until there is a return to normal conditions in the country.

New Mexican interests also are insisting that the plank include a declaration that the United States will recognize no government in Mexico which cannot give complete assurance of protection to foreigners.

After the preamble, which cites the fact that conditions never were more grave, the platform declares that "the Republicans will undertake to end executive autocracy and restore to the people the constitutional government and the policies herein set forth will be carried out by the Federal and State governments."

Here are summaries of the planks agreed upon by the steering committee:

AGRICULTURE—Approves right of farmers to form co-operative societies for marketing; co-ordination of water, rail and motor transportation, and amendment of the farm loan act to permit better financing of tenants who wish to buy farms.

TAXATION—Recommends tax laws "which do not excessively mulct the consumer, the substitution of simple for the present complex laws and creation of a tax board to simplify income tax procedure without legal recourse." The plank points out that the Republicans will inherit a tremendous debt from the Wilson administration, including a floating debt of more than $3,000,000,000, and adds that "An early reduction in the amount of needed revenue is not to be expected."

ECONOMY—Pledges the party to "a carefully-planned readjustment to a peace-time basis and a policy of rigid economy." The plank points out that "The executive departments and other establishments in Washington actually record an increase subsequent to the armistice of 2,184 employes." The Republican adherence to a real budget system then is reaffirmed.

SYMPATHY FOR IRELAND.

HIGH COST OF LIVING—Pledges the party to honest money and sound finance and real battling against the further inflation of currency, prevention of excessive profits, and an increased production, and by the encouragement of public and private economics and thrift.

IRELAND—Goes on record as in sympathy with all oppressed peoples, and declares that the people of Ireland have the right to determine, without outside interference, their own governmental institutions and their relations with other peoples.

FEDERAL RESERVE BANK SYSTEM—Recommends only that the system should be freed from political influence. Declares that there has been a policy of inflation through certificate borrowing from the banks and artificial rates maintained on bonds by low discount rates established by the board.

INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS—Denies right to strike against the government, but says rights of government employes must be safeguarded. Recognizes the right of collective bargaining and urges governmental initiative to prevent constantly recurring strikes, which inflict losses on the entire community. Fails to mention Kansas idea of industrial court, but declares against principal of compulsory arbitration mediation and conciliation, and urges establishment of governmental agencies to obtain such results.

OPPOSES PLUMB PLAN.

RAILROADS—Opposes government ownership of railroad sand the Plumb plan. Indorses the Cummins-Esch bill and insists upon the guarantee of a fair return upon railroad securities.

WATERWAYS—Urges full development of waterways as aid to solution of transportation problems.

TRUSTS—Urges legislation to define, more specifically, the actual limitations of monopolies and combinations in restraint of trade to give business an opportunity to know in advance what is and what is not unlawful.

MERCHANT MARINE—Urges great merchant marine, privately owned, as a necessary adjunct to a real navy, and demands that coastwise trade vessels of the American merchant marine pay no Panama Canal tolls.

TARIFF—Reaffirms Republican adherence to a protective tariff as a means of preservation of home markets.

WOULD REGISTER ALIENS.

IMMIGRATION—Upholds policy of excluding Orientals, and wants higher physical and mental standard tests for immigrants, who should be admitted in no greater number than can be assimilated. Wants better distribution of aliens. All aliens should be required to register annually until they become citizens.

NATURALIZATION—Urges independent naturalization of married women and raising of standard of naturalization.

FREE SPEECH—Declares American citizens should not be deprived of the right of free speech, but aliens are not entitled to the same consideration when their speech is directed against the governmental institutions of the country. Adequate public hearings should be given all aliens to be deported.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE—Urges Republican governors to get ratification of 19th Amendment.

CONSERVATION—Denounces President for failure to sign the water power bill and urges discovery of means to preserve forests.

HISTORY MAKING AMUSES ROLLO

Wants to Know Why Delegates Can't Elect Convention Trombone Player

By BRUNO LESSING.

Chicago, June 10.—Here we are in the Coliseum again, Little Rollo. No, the delegates have not been here all night. They have had a night's sleep just like us. Yes, they can go home whenever they like. I guess so. Most people have a home. No, I don't know where they all live. They come from every State.

When you grow up you will always remember that you saw history being made. They are just waiting to be called now to order. The man with the red nose? He is a delegate. He is shouting "What's the matter with General Wood?

No, I do not know what is the matter with him. The other men are asking what is the matter with Lowden and Johnson. No, they are not sick. They always ask that question at a convention. No, that is not what I mean by making history.

This convention will show the world that this is the land of the free, where we select our own rulers. Of course. Everybody is free in this country. No, you can't go out. You must sit right there.

Who? The trombone player? Oh, dear, no. They couldn't select him. The leaders should never permit it. I don't mean the leader of the band. I mean the leaders of the Republican party. No, they are not here now. They always come in late.

Why are they leaders? What foolish questions you ask, Rollo. Certainly they make history. That is to say, the delegates make history. Or rather—I'm afraid, Rollo, you're too young to understand those things.

No, the chairman is not making history. He is merely calling the convention to order. No, he is not a leader—that is, he is not one of the big leaders who er—help the delegates to make history.

Who makes the best history? That is a foolish question. That good looking man with the pink cheeks? No he does not make history. He is a banker from New York. He makes money. Yes, ladies can make history, too. They have made a great deal of history. But you are too young to understand those things.

No, the man who is speaking is not making history. He is reading the names of the different committees. You see they have to have committees because a few men do things better than a lot of men.

Profits Helped Build Our Business

Do you think it's right to save money?

Swift & Company's business has been built up partly by selling capital stock for cash and partly by thrifty saving, putting some of our earnings each year back into the business to increase facilities for production.

That is what most all of us seek to do—save part of our earnings for future usefulness.

It is the way American industries have been built up. It means the least drain on the financial resources of the country.

For the past twenty-four years Swift & Company has made an average profit from all sources of 11.3 per cent on investment (capital and surplus), and 2.3 cents on each dollar of sales—a fraction of a cent per pound. Out of this we have paid dividends and saved something to help us keep pace with a growing country.

G. O. P. PLATFORM RECOGNIZES ASPIRATIONS OF IRISH PEOPLE

"The mild reservationists" withdrew their demand for a provision for ratification "with proper reservations," and Senator Borah of Idaho, leader of the "irreconcilables," announced he was satisfied with the [illegible] submitted to him.

The plank agreed upon was drawn up after senators and other Republican leaders had held a series of conferences to prevent a renewal of the Senate controversy' over the League of Nations on the convention floor.

Until the agreement was reached, the "mild reservationists," led by Senators Kellogg of Minnesota, and Lenroot of Wisconsin, had been insisting upon the convention going on record in its platform for a ratification of the treaty with "proper reservations."

Elimination of all reference to ratification was forced upon them by the stand taken by Senators Johnson and Borah against it.

The plank agreed to was expected to meet with the speedy approval of the convention when the platform in which it is incorporated is submitted by the resolutions committee.

With the convention leaders supporting the plank, any opposition that might be started to it would be quickly "flattened out," it was predicted.

The "compromise" plank is so worded, it was stated, that anybody the convention may name as its presidential candidate will be able to stand upon it.

Unqualified recognition of Ireland's right to self-determination will be a part of the Republican national platform if the report of the special steering committee on resolutions is accepted.

The freedom-for-Ireland resolve follows:

"That the people of Ireland have the right to determine, without outside interference, their own governmental institutions and their relations with other peoples."

ALLEN PLANK DEFEATED.

Defeat of Governor Allen's industrial court plank, which was forecast yesterday, was accomplished in the steering committee, but the plank adopted, on the other hand, is not so broad as that demanded by Samuel Gompers and the American Federation of Labor in the hearing before the committee.

As regards the railroads and public utilities, the plank urges the establishment of a tribunal to investigate and make decisions, to prevent tying up service. The decision of these tribunals should be "morally, but not legally" binding. Tribunals should refuse to accept jurisdiction except for investigating purposes, so long as service is interrupted, or men are on strike.

In regard to Mexico, it seemed pretty certain the steering committee would get together on a plank which practically would indorse the report of the Fall investigating committee, which recommends the policing of Mexico until there is a return to normal conditions in the country.

New Mexican interests also are insisting that the plank include a declaration that the United States will recognize no government in Mexico which cannot give complete assurance of protection to foreigners.

After the preamble, which cites the fact that conditions never were more grave, the platform declares that "the Republicans will undertake to end executive autocracy and restore to the people the constitutional government and the policies herein set forth will be carried out by the Federal and State governments."

Here are summaries of the planks agreed upon by the steering committee:

AGRICULTURE—Approves right of farmers to form co-operative societies for marketing; co-ordination of water, rail and motor transportation, and amendment of the farm loan act to permit better financing of tenants who wish to buy farms.

TAXATION—Recommends tax laws "which do not excessively mulct the consumer, the substitution of simple for the present complex laws and creation of a tax board to simplify income tax procedure without legal recourse." The plank points out that the Republicans will inherit a tremendous debt from the Wilson administration, including a floating debt of more than $3,000,000,000, and adds that "An early reduction in the amount of needed revenue is not to be expected."

ECONOMY—Pledges the party to "a carefully-planned readjustment to a peace-time basis and a policy of rigid economy." The plank points out that "The executive departments and other establishments in Washington actually record an increase subsequent to the armistice of 2,184 employes." The Republican adherence to a real budget system then is reaffirmed.

SYMPATHY FOR IRELAND.

HIGH COST OF LIVING—Pledges the party to honest money and sound finance and real battling against the further inflation of currency, prevention of excessive profits, and an increased production, and by the encouragement of public and private economics and thrift.

IRELAND—Goes on record as in sympathy with all oppressed peoples, and declares that the people of Ireland have the right to determine, without outside interference, their own governmental institutions and their relations with other peoples.

FEDERAL RESERVE BANK SYSTEM—Recommends only that the system should be freed from political influence. Declares that there has been a policy of inflation through certificate borrowing from the banks and artificial rates maintained on bonds by low discount rates established by the board.

INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS—Denies right to strike against the government, but says rights of government employes must be safeguarded. Recognizes the right of collective bargaining and urges governmental initiative to prevent constantly recurring strikes, which inflict losses on the entire community. Fails to mention Kansas idea of industrial court, but declares against principal of compulsory arbitration mediation and conciliation, and urges establishment of governmental agencies to obtain such results.

OPPOSES PLUMB PLAN.

RAILROADS—Opposes government ownership of railroad sand the Plumb plan. Indorses the Cummins-Esch bill and insists upon the guarantee of a fair return upon railroad securities.

WATERWAYS—Urges full development of waterways as aid to solution of transportation problems.

TRUSTS—Urges legislation to define, more specifically, the actual limitations of monopolies and combinations in restraint of trade to give business an opportunity to know in advance what is and what is not unlawful.

MERCHANT MARINE—Urges great merchant marine, privately owned, as a necessary adjunct to a real navy, and demands that coastwise trade vessels of the American merchant marine pay no Panama Canal tolls.

TARIFF—Reaffirms Republican adherence to a protective tariff as a means of preservation of home markets.

WOULD REGISTER ALIENS.

IMMIGRATION—Upholds policy of excluding Orientals, and wants higher physical and mental standard tests for immigrants, who should be admitted in no greater number than can be assimilated. Wants better distribution of aliens. All aliens should be required to register annually until they become citizens.

NATURALIZATION—Urges independent naturalization of married women and raising of standard of naturalization.

FREE SPEECH—Declares American citizens should not be deprived of the right of free speech, but aliens are not entitled to the same consideration when their speech is directed against the governmental institutions of the country. Adequate public hearings should be given all aliens to be deported.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE—Urges Republican governors to get ratification of 19th Amendment.

CONSERVATION—Denounces President for failure to sign the water power bill and urges discovery of means to preserve forests.

"DRYS" TO FIGHT FOR PLANK

Bryan Foresees Battle on Floor if Issue Is Side-tracked

By WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN

(Copyright, 1920, by W. J. Bryan.)

Chicago, June 10.—The second day's session was as usual a very brief one. The second day of a national convention sees very little actual work done. Committee on permanent organization reported in favor of Senator Lodge for permanent chairman—a sad disappointment for the friends of ex-Senator Beveridge, who were anxious to give him a chance to sound a second keynote.

W. J. BRYAN.

The Senator from Massachusetts aroused genuine applause when he stated that he would not make a speech. He did not improve the opportunity offered to withdraw anything he said yesterday or to add anything that he had left out. Over in London they have a very apt phrase, viz: "Cab wit," which they use to describe the bright thoughts that come to a speaker as he rides home from a meeting. Senator Lodge evidently walked home.

"STANDPATTER" HOLDS REINS.

While the convention marks time the committees are at work, especially the big committees—the big committee—the committee on resolutions. The chairman of the committee, Senator Watson of Indiana, presides with great dignity while those who have planks to present are being heard. And by the way, the selection of Mr. Watson by an overwhelming majority affords ample proof of the character of this convention.

Senator Watson has been in public life long enough to have made a record; the voters take judicial notice of the fact that he is a stand-patter from away back.

CRANE ACCUSED BY BORAH

Acting in Behalf of International Bankers, Senator Charges

By CHARLES O. POWER.

Chicago, June 10.—Previous to the agreement on the treaty plank, former Senator Crane had accepted the challenge of Senator Borah and said if a fight to the death within the ranks of the Republican party must come he welcomed it now, but would not surrender or compromise with the irreconcilables.

C. O. POWER.

He favored a treaty with reservations, not necessarily the League reservations of any particular pet set, but reservations drawn by the committee and not dictated by any Senatorial clique.

Borah still threatened a bolt and third party if a treaty plank favorable to the element he represents was not adopted, and Crane continued even harder to secure his end and said the talk about a bolt could not swerve him from his purpose. Senator Borah and Senator McCormick of Illinois made the open charge that Crane was acting in behalf of a group of international bankers who are here. Crane refused to admit or refute the charge.

"The whole difficulty is caused by former Senator Crane and a group of international bankers who are here."

Senator Watson of Indiana, chairman of the sub-committee, reported that he had been unable to get Mr. Crane's indorsement of the compromise plank.

Borah announced that the irreconcilables would agree to a plank condemning the Wilson League of Nations, commending the Republican Senators for rejecting it, and urging an association of nations and establishment of an international court, but reaffirming adherence of the United States to the foreign policies of Washington and Monroe.

The platform sub-committee sent a rough draft of this plank to the leaders who insist that the Republican party must indorse a league of nations with reservations protecting American interests. Senator Watson, Senator Smoot and others carried it to the ratification camp. Mr. Crane, as spokesman for the ratificationists, is reported to have denounced the plank as a shameful surrender to the irreconcilables and to have declared that if there was to be a split in the Republican party over the issue it would have to come.

Senator Borah returned to the sub-committee meeting with fire in his eye.

"It looks doubtful now that we will get an agreement on the league plank," the Senator said.

"What has happened?"

"Murray Crane and the international bankers of Wall Street insist that this convention must adopt a plank indorsing ratification of the League of Nations with reservations."

"What does that mean?"

"It means, so far as I am concerned, that we will carry the fight to the convention," Senator Borah replied.

"And if the convention upholds a ratification plank?"

"It means, so far as I am concerned, that I reserve the right to denounce the Republican platform in every forum of the United States," the Idaho Senator replied.

"How about Johnson?"

"I cannot speak for the Senator from California."

PENROSE GRIPS CONVENTION

Holds Up Machinery by Refusal to Decide on Important Issues

By WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD.

Chicago, June 10.—I've kept my eye on this Penrose fellow during the last forty-eight hours. Folks here are getting suspicious that he's the gentleman whose keeping us here. He may be sick, but he's worth watching.

As near as you can find out in these hot streets and crowded hotels, somebody here wants him to say yes or no to several different propositions and he won't do it.

What's more he won't let anybody else do it. The whole thing was stalled, all on account of that telephone wire and those telegraph wires that run to this sick man's bed.

Girls' Smocks and Middies

1.95 Value 2.95

Sizes 6 to 14

Smocks and Middies that speak of the good times of summer—in the garden, at the beach and in the playgrounds—have come forth at a very special price.

The Middies

All white Lonsdale Jean makes a tailored Middy with long sleeves, buttoned cuffs and sailor collar.

White Indian Head Middies with blue linen sailor collars and cuffs of the three-quarter length sleeves and band around the bottom. The pocket, too, has its dash of blue. This also comes in white with pink trimmings of linen.

Blue Ramie Linen Middies trimmed with white braid. They are made with a deep yoke and tie with a white lacing. The sleeves are long.

The Smocks

Ramie Linen makes a lovely little Smock with pockets, round neck and pointed three-quarter sleeves, feather stitched and buttonhole edged in contrasting color. In rose and blue.

CAN THIS MAN WIN?

The sixth article of the American's review of the Democratic presidential possibilities at the coming San Francisco convention deals with Governor James M. Cox of Ohio, and folows:

By EDMOND T. MOONE,

National chairman of the Cox-for-President Campaign Committee

It appears now highly probable that the San Francisco nominee will be James M. Cox. It is certain that he will, in racing parlance, run one-two and that the winner will be either Governor Cox or a dark horse.

This prediction is founded on the following reasons:

He is fit. While this can also be justly said of several other candidates, he alone has had the rare opportunity to demonstrate his intellectual many sidedness by a varied and eminently successful business and political career equalled by few and surpassed by none in America.

WAS NOTED WAR GOVERNOR.

It has been his good fortune to be Governor of a great State during six of the most strenuous years in the world's history and to have made a record of achievement far greater than that of any ordinary President of the United States in normal times.

Our statute books during that portion of the period when he had with him a Democratic legislature bear mute but enduring witness to that fact. No other State has such a record of enlightened progressive legislation. His conduct of the State's business has been no less admirable and even the great Roosevelt gave admiring commendation to "Ohio's great war Governor."

He is a democrat spelled with either a big or little D. This, I think, will be a sine qua non with the San Francisco convention. His career as farmer boy, country school teacher, reporter on a great metropolitan daily, secretary to a Congressman, newspaper editor and publisher, Congressman and Governor has taught him to be approachable, a good listener, to work well with others and to remember that men in high places generally do not owe their advancement to themselves alone.

A REMARKABLE VOTE-GETTER.

He is a vote-getter. How the records of either of the other leading candidates would appeal to the voters is the merest guess. His record is ballot-tested. He has been three times elected Governor of a normally Republican State. In the landslide of 1918, when the Republicans carried both houses of the Legislature and defeated every other Democrat on the State ticket, he ran 75,000 votes ahead of the congressional ticket.

(Tomorrow—Vice-President Marshall)

SEEK $47,000 MORE FOR ADDITION TO SCHOOL

The schoolhouse department will ask for an additional appropriation to build a two-story addition to the Michael Angelo School in the North End for which the John Bowen Company bid $247,000 or $47,000 over the appropriation. The work must be done while school is in progress. Builders prefer to contract on a percentage plus basis, Schoolhouse Commissioner James J. Mahar stated, because of the unsettled conditions of the market.

HAVERHILL WOMAN'S PURSE STOPS BULLET

Haverhill, June 10.—Mrs. Albert Chaput, who conducts a small store on River street, is thankful that she carries her purse in the pocket of her apron. While walking on the street a bullet from a 38-calibre revolver struck her pocketbook, glanced off and bruised her leg. The police investigated and found that eighteen-year-old Everett Wedgewood, while in a boat on the Merrimac River with another boy, fired at a sand pile. A stray shot struck Mrs. Chaput 200 feet away.

NEW HINGHAM CHURCH CORNERSTONE IS LAID

Bishop William Lawrence officiated at the laying of the cornerstone of the Church of St. John the Evangelist, at the corner of Main and Water streets, Hingham.

Among those in the congregation who witnessed the ceremony was Mrs. Ezra Thayer, who gave the church in memory of her husband,

GOVERNOR JAMES M. COX.

ALHAMBRAS TO FORM NEW CARAVAN JUNE 20

On Sunday, June 20, a new caravan of the order of the Alhambra will be instituted at Springfield by Supreme Propagandist James A. Ryan of Boston, assisted by the degree staff and choir of Granada Caravan No. 2 of Boston. The charter list of the new caravan bears the names of nearly 100 of the best known Knights of Columbus of Springfield.

MRS. EMMONS HEADS Y. D. PATRONESSES

The officers of the Y. D. Club unanimously named Mrs. Nathaniel Emmons as fairy godmother for "Skyhigh," the three-act musical comedy which is to be presented at the Shubert Theatre the week of June 21.

Mrs. Emmons has selected for patronesses, including many Back Bay society and club women, who will work for the success of the Y. D. show. The proceeds of "Skyhigh" are to be used for furnishing the Y. D. clubhouse.

MOUSE TRAP WON'T CATCH JOHNSON, BRISBANE WARNS

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

Chicago, June 10.—They can't beat Johnson unless they buy the delegates.

If they buy the delegates "with coin," as Johnson puts it, or with promises, Johnson will run independently and beat the foolish buyers.

The Best Way

To get strong and to keep well is to help Nature rebuild and repair the wear and tear upon body cells. Food is not always sufficiently digested or properly used. The best medicine is that which builds up, not merely braces up. This is why Father John's Medicine secures results, which have caused its steadily increasing use for over sixty years. It contains neither alcohol nor drugs. It supplies one of Nature's great food-medicines which can be easily digested and effectively used. It is a builder, not a mere bracer. Get a bottle today.

Each day this writer has told you that Johnson would surely run independently if Ivory soap or Wall street soap bought the nomination away from him.

Today Johnson himself tells you that he will run as an independent if he finds that in this convention he is fighting, not other candidates, but big pocketbooks that buy delegates, twenty-five hundred apiece at retail, five hundred thousand a State at wholesale. Read carefully this paragraph from Johnson's statement given out last night:

"At this time, I have faith in the honor of the men instructed for me, despite the sinister efforts to swerve from their pledged duty. But they are being subjected to every inducement to betray their faith, and to offset the situation I desire to say one thing finally upon that subject.

"If there be men among them who may be induced to break faith with themselves, the people and me, I want to make clear the warning that I will take the matter directly back to the people thus betrayed. This is a promise."

Please read once more the last part of that extract from Johnson's statement. It is plain language and a plain warning. It tells convention buyers, soap users of various brands from Proctor, the guileless Ivory little soap retailer, to the big soap boilers from Wall Street that Johnson proposes to be not BOUGHT OUT NOR SOLD OUT.

Observe his words, "that is a promise." What promise? It is a promise that if his delegates are bought he will, these are HIS words, "take the matter directly back to the people thus betrayed."

How can Johnson take the matter of delegate-buying directly BACK TO THE PEOPLE, except by running as an independent candidate and proving, as has been done before, that soap dealers can buy delegates, sometimes, but the people never.

Johnson has told you and the soap dealers plainly, in the words quoted above, that if he is BOUGHT out or SOLD out he will take the matter back to the people.

Here in Chicago they may swindle ten million voters that want him, Johnson, BUT THE STEAM ROLLER WILL NOT BE WORKING ON ELECTION DAY NEXT NOVEMBER.

There will be then no smug Lodge, with feeble chin hidden by foolish beard, to tell the people with a sneer that they do not know what is good for them.

Today a trap laboriously contrived by soapy brains is to be sprung, and Johnson, they HOPE, is to be caught. They do not dare fight Johnson directly. He is too powerful for that. They do not dare put up his name and vote it down. That would be risky, for there are many Republican delegates that really want to win, and that are willing, which others are not, to win with an honest candidate that cannot be controlled or delivered.

BRING UP TREATY.

They propose to beat Johnson by bringing up the peace league plank of the platform. They will debate Johnson's demand that the peace league be rejected absolutely. They will get Johnson mixed up personally in that debate if they can. And while they would not dare vote down Johnson they will dare to seal down his demand for peace league rejections. Having defeated Johnson, as they can do tomorrow, on what for the moment is an unimportant issue, they will declare Johnson himself defeated and rejected by the convention and proceed to nominate someone else.

That would be a good trap to catch a mouse about the physical and mental size of Henry Cabot Lodge. But you do not catch elephants in mouse traps.

Johnson will be there, of course. He never ran away from anything, anybody or any trap. But he will select his own fencing ground, and it will not be selected for him.

He will tell the convention that his mind is in the real problem which is the selling at auction of the presidency and assure them he is interested in the auction, not in details following the auction.

WILL GIVE INFORMATION

When Johnson later today or at tomorrow's session faces the mousetrap builders he will give them first of all the important information that they need. He will say to them in his own language, "I shall not run against the REPUBLICAN PARTY as an independent, but I SHALL RUN AND FIGHT IN ANY WAY THAT I CAN AGAINST THEM THAT TRY TO BUY THE REPUBLICAN PARTY."

The promise that a man makes to honest men does not bind him when face to face with burglars. The statement that Johnson would not run against the Republican nominee will not bind him, if that nominee is a political soap bubble bought and paid for by financial burglars.

The end of pussy-footing has come, and today or tomorrow Johnson will make as much plainer as may be necessary his statement quoted above, which means:

WILL WASTE MONEY.

If this convention is bought, the buyers will waste their money. Johnson will run independently and will win.

There are soap men, cheap, little amateurs from Ivory soap factory and experienced wholesalers from the corner of Wall and Broad streets in New York city that are laying up trouble for themselves. Thieving and bribery, PROVED, would be very inconvenient with such an attorney-general as Johnson will appoint. Johnson will be the next President and the final peace league trap prepared today will give him a welcome opportunity to show what a man can do to mousetrap.

MAINE COURT TO HEAR ARIZONA MINING SUIT

Portland, Me., June 10.—A suit of Iron Cap Mining Company against Arizona Commercial Mining Company, in which Iron Cap seeks compensation for some 250,000 tons of ore alleged to have been taken from its property by Arizona Commercial and sod for about $2,000,000, was declared by the Maine law court to be within its jurisdiction. Both are Maine corporations. The law court ruled that Arizona courts had jurisdiction in an action wherein Iron Cap seeks to recover $250,000 from Arizona Commercial for draining the latter's mine in common with its own.

COOLIDGE KEEPS HIS EYE ON CONVENTION

Governor Coolidge is keeping in close touch with the progress of the Chicago convention. Henry F. Long, his secretary, today declared that the Governor was "sticking close to the business of the State and was grateful for the kindness of the Hearst papers in keeping his candidacy for the presidency before the people."

75 MORE FAVOR COOLIDGE

Amazing Number of Delegates Found Ready to Vote for Bay State Executive

By JOHN T. LAMBERT

Chicago, June 10.—The knifing which Governor Calvin Coolidge is receiving from members of his own Massachusetts delegation may cripple whatever chance he had to win the Republican nomination for President.

There are many people here in Chicago, who seriously believe that his chance is far greater than appears on the surface. The choice of the convention seems not to have been determined whether any one of the three leading candidates will be sufficiently powerful to break through the opposition. Failing to agree on one of the four most active contestants, if Harding is included in that list, the convention must turn to one of the groups who are classified under the term "dark horse" candidates.

The Coolidge volunteer scouts, practically all of whom are here only as sightseers or Coolidge well-wishers, are going out among the other delegations to ascertain just how friendly Coolidge is looked upon outside the State.

GENERAL ADMIRATION.

The friendly feeling for Coolidge which they have found has amazed our Massachusetts people. Wherever they have gone they have heard only the kindliest of feelings expressed. The impression lies abroad that Coolidge is a plain kind of a man, simple in manners and thought and possessing a native courage and ability to think straight, qualities that are very much needed at present.

From every section of the country. At the end of their first half day's expedition the volunteer workers reported back to the Coolidge headquarters that seventy-five delegates had openly and positively expressed a willingness to vote for Governor Coolidge in the event that their own first choice candidates seemed hopelessly out of the running.

Most of the antagonistic feeling is directed against Senator Lodge. Weeks is working with energy and seeming sincerity for Governor Coolidge.

TWO INJURED WHEN AUTO HITS CULTIVATOR

Frank L. Mara of Winchester and Ernest Viano of Bedford street, North Lexington, are nursing cuts and bruises as the result of an automobile accident on Bedford street, North Lexington. They were coming towards Lexington in Mara's machine, and a gig occupied by [illegible] Wheatley and P. Wheatley of Bedford, with a cultivator drawn behind, was going in the opposite direction. The gig turned out, but in the dark Mara did not see the cultivator and the machine struck it and turned turtle. The machine and cultivator were smashed.

Vose Player Piano

Its patented tone producing features enable one to play with feeling and expression. These patented advantages are used exclusively in Vose players and are responsible in a great measure for the popularity of this instrument among the musically educated.

Vose quality, in material, in pianocraft, and in tone, has a reputation in the piano world second to none—earned through earnest and honest endeavor for piano perfection.

When one has made comparisons of player values, one is impressed with the tone of this player — so pleasingly different from the usual player tone.

A comparison—the played roll tells a truer and more convincing story of its superiority than the written word. [illegible] Terms.

GAELIC BAZAAR NETS $1,500

Money to Be Forwarded to Ireland to Relieve Impoverished Sinn Fein Families

Proceeds totaling $1,500 resulted from the bazaar held under the auspices of the Boston Gaelic School at No. 2385 Washington street, Roxbury, according to a report made to-day. This amount will be forwarded to Mrs. Anna O'Rahilly, No. 4 Herbert place, Dublin, Ireland, treasurer of the fund being collected for the families of Sinn Fein leaders in that city, alleged to have been impoverished by the British military forces.

Reports from Dublin, Ireland, received by members of the Gaelic School charge the soldiers with thefts of money and jewelry and other articles of value in their night raids on homes when searching for alleged Sinn Fein leaders.

POUNCE ON MEN.

A letter received from Mrs. O'Rahilly relates some of the alleged brutalities of the British soldiers. She compliments members of the Boston Gaelic School for their work in raising funds for the afflicted families. She writes in part:

"Every night during curfew hours armored cars, lorries and soldiers go through Dublin to seize the homes where they can pounce on [illegible] soldiers with fixed bayonets and rifles and when [illegible] knock or raise latter on [illegible] the military. God help the poor people who have a volunteer in their house or even a single car[illegible]. It means six months [illegible] house."

Police Stop Collection of Money at Street Meetings of Sallies

The police have placed a ban on the soliciting of money by means of passing the tambourine at meetings of the Salvation Army and the Volunteers of America in Pemberton square on the ground that such practice is illegal on a public thoroughfare. The police claim that of late complaints have been made relative to the method of collecting money.

Patrolman T. J. McGovern of the City Hall avenue station asked the commanders of the two organizations for their permits allowing them to solicit money from bystanders. Neither leader was supplied with a permit and they were asked by the police not to pass the tambourines to persons during the [illegible].

New Hair Growth After BALDNESS

HAIR GROWN ON MR. BRITTAIN'S BALD HEAD BY INDIANS' MYSTERIOUS HAIR GROWER

My head at the top and back was absolutely bald. The scalp was shiny. An expert said that as he thought the hair roots were extinct and there was no hope of my ever having a new hair growth.

Yet now, at an age over 66, I have a luxuriant growth of soft, strong [illegible] no trace of baldness. The pictures shown here are from my photographs.

At a time when I had become discouraged at trying various hair lotions, tonics, specialists' treatments, etc., I came across, in my travels, a Cherokee Indian "medicine man" who had an elixir that he asseverated would grow my hair. Although I had but little faith, I gave it a trial. To my amazement a light fuzz soon appeared. It developed, day by day, into a healthy growth, and ere long my hair was as prolific as in my youthful days.

That I was astonished and happy is expressing my state of mind mildly.

Obviously, the hair roots had not been dead, but were dormant in the scalp, awaiting the fertilizing potency of the mysterious pomade.

I negotiated for and came into possession of the principle for preparing this mysterious elixir, now called Kotalko, and later had the recipe put into practical form by a chemist.

That my own hair growth was permanent has been amply proved. Many men and women, also children, have reported satisfactory results from Kotalko.

How YOU May Grow YOUR Hair

My honest belief is that hair roots rarely die even when the hair falls out through dandruff, fever, excessive dryness or other disorders. I have been told by experts that often when hair falls out the roots become imbedded within the scalp, covered by hard skin, so that they remain for a time like bulbs or seeds in a bottle which will grow when fertilized. Shampoos (which contain alkalis) and hair lotions which contain alcohol are enemies to the hair, as they dry it, making it brittle. Kotalko contains those elements of nature which give new vitality to the scalp and hair.

McGraw, Rickey and Hornsby Deny

New York, June 10—A report was sent out by a press association to the effect that the Giants had bought Rogers Hornsby from St. Louis for $150,000. John McGraw, when seen at the Polo Grounds, said that the Giants had done nothing in the way of purchasing any player or players.

Branch Rickey, at Ebbet's Field, denied the report vehemently and said that its recurrence was beginning to annoy him. Hornsby, himself, said that he had heard nothing about his being sold to the Giants.

you never smoked a cigarette so delightful as Camels!

ALL you've got to do is to check up the number of men smoking Camels you meet every day! If you're curious to know why so many men smoke Camels, buy a package and compare Camels with any cigarette in the world at any price!

Mark down a few things you note about Camels that you never found in a cigarette before! You'll enjoy Camels expert blend of choice Turkish and choice Domestic tobacco because it's a cigarette revelation! And, you'll prefer this Camel blend to either kind of tobacco smoked straight.

Your keenest cigarette desires will be rewarded when you discover that no matter how liberally you smoke Camels, they will not tire your taste! Your relish of Camels flavor and mellow mild body tomorrow morning will be as keen as it was tonight!

Besides, jot it down that Camels leave no unpleasant cigaretty aftertaste nor unpleasant cigaretty odor! So many thousands of smokers enjoy Camels as they have never before enjoyed a cigarette that we pass the news on to you!

Camels are sold everywhere in scientifically sealed packages of 20 cigarettes; or ten packages (200 cigarettes) in a glassine-paper-covered carton. We strongly recommend this carton for the home or office supply or when you travel.

All shoes in our Stores were made from leathers and materials purchased long before the high peak was reached in leather prices.

MANY years ago I decided that the best way to protect my customers against excessive profits was to stamp a fair and square retail price on the soles of my store shoes, based on the actual factory cost of labor and materials.

By enlarging my production from year to year I have been able to keep this selling price remarkably low in spite of the greatly increased cost of all materials and labor.

I have always felt that it was better policy to make many shoes at a low profit than a few shoes at a larger profit.

Emerson Shoes are not marked up at one season of the year just to hold so-called "Marked Down Sales" at another season. I never ask you to pay more for a shoe than it is actually worth.

The fact that I have increased my sales TEN TIMES in the past six years is proof positive that the general public appreciates this policy

Come into our store and put this to the test. Inspect our styles and prices,—and if you aren't convinced that you are getting more for your money in Emerson Shoes than in any others, I will not expect or want you to buy.

Resolute and Vanitie Both Showing Well in Contests to Date

By CHARLES E. PARKER.

Newport, R. I., June 10.—Once [illegible] weather conditions prevailed for the America Cup defense elimination trials and a close race seemed in store for the hundreds of onlookers who crowded the rocky vantage points near the starting point or rimmed the decks of the sail, steam and motor-driven craft which accompanied the Resolute and Vanitie as these yachts got away in the fifth of their series of races.

The fourth meeting of the pair [illegible] race [illegible] ever recorded [illegible] the Resolute was [illegible] spread.

Cicotte Elected to Halt Rush of Red Sox by Chicago Field Director

Chicago, June 10.—Eddie Cicotte [illegible] Manager Gleason [illegible] the Red Sox [illegible] have behaved very rudely to their brethren of the pale hose [illegible] here downing [illegible]

But Ed Barrow was in no mood to let up. He says nothing is more inspiring than victory, and he doesn't intend to permit of any shift now that his charges are once more headed [illegible] So Barrow had [illegible] warming up just before the hour of the game.

[illegible] Williams gave the Red Sox four [illegible] the fifth he passed Scott and Waters after which Hooper [illegible] Hooper walked home and the fire was out.

The White Sox profited by a pair of triples, the authors of which were [illegible] and Jackson. [illegible] the long-distance [illegible] featured. This proved effective pitching on the part of Joe Bush.

The Man Women Like Most

By Beatrice Fairfax

A[illegible] a "man's man," with a [illegible] for some magic to [illegible] a favorite with [illegible] sex as well? Do you get [illegible] with the boys and [illegible] shing and stan[illegible] are women [illegible]

[illegible] the men who [illegible] and something [illegible] fashion.

[illegible] that girls don't pay [illegible] I never seem [illegible] to say to them, [illegible]

[illegible]

Rather Astonishing

[illegible] this place called a man's world, how many masculine persons are asking that same question. Girls have a way of saying that men—the lords of creation—have only to pick and choose to get just the girl they want. But the facts seem to indicate that there are plenty of lonely men looking for the right girl and failing to find her.

Why should the sensible worth-while [illegible] man who wants to give [illegible] best find that no [illegible] he is offering his best or his second best or [illegible]

The answer is just as likely to be one thing as another—it generally [illegible] of the two extremes [illegible] in the [illegible] shyness—or [illegible]

The [illegible] mothering type of woman often takes pity on shyness and longs to comfort the man who is ill at ease and unhappy. But he probably has his eye on some gay, dancing butterfly of a girl who doesn't even know that such an awkward hobble-de-hoy of a man exists.

The man who reaches out eagerly toward every woman who comes along, probably repels them all either by the force of his feelings or by the impression he gives that any girl will do for an unselective person such as himself. His [illegible] man stiff is likely, however [illegible] by his awkwardness. A w[illegible] may have a certain strong and magnificent grace which attracts even those it terrifies. But a St. Bernard puppy, which knocks everything over in its rough gambolings, is either ludicrous or just offensive.

[illegible] charm and the magnetism which are the gifts of the fair [illegible] man need worry about his attractiveness. Instead he is likely to find himself defending [illegible]

But the average ordinary [illegible] citizen who longs to win love and who [illegible] on busy learning to make him [illegible] the world [illegible] awkwardness or [illegible] off forever from winning the thing he would so prize—a woman's de[illegible]?

The Basic Strength

Not a bit of it. For in the last analysis there is one thing fine women admire above all else in men and finding it they give devotion and adoration [illegible] are. The thing a normal healthy lovable girl cannot resist when once she has seen the splendid force of it in full working order is strength.

I don't mean what is known as cave-man stuff. I'm not quoting the saying about "treat 'em rough." I'm referring to the deeper basic compelling strength that comes from character that [illegible] and depends [illegible]

True Art

With frowning brows a famous artist was transferring to canvas the beautiful Highland scene before him, and furiously wishing that the spectator who was breathing down the back of his neck would go away. But the spectator was a "sticker." "Man," he said presently, "did ye never think tae try photography?" "No!" snapped the artist, as he went on painting. "I wunner at that noo," said the spectator. "It's a hantle quicker as well's bein' mair like the place!"

The Entertaining Shopman

Two women, one of whom carried a baby, asked a salesman to show them some carpets. It was a hot day, but the salesman cheerfully showed roll after roll, [illegible] perspiration streamed from his face. Finally one of the women asked the other if it were not time to go. "Not just yet," was the answer, with the whispered explanation. "Baby likes to see him roll them out, and we've plenty of time to catch the train!"

"The Barn That Wasn't!"

There had been a storm during the night, and next morning everybody was out to discover what damage had been done.

Two farmers chanced to meet at the boundary fence of the adjoining properties.

"Well," said one of them, "she shook things up out my way, to be sure. By the way, Henry," he added, "did that new barn of yours get damaged?"

"I can't say," replied the second farmer. "I haven't found it yet."

ABOUT OUR GOOD FRIEND Moore

Copyright, 1920, by The Ledger Syndicate

MOORE

VARIATIONS—Moor, Mohr, Morris, Morice, Morrice, Fitzmorris, Moriarty, Moriarity, Atmore, Atmoor, Morrison.

RACIAL ORIGIN—All European.

SOURCES—Variously a given name, descriptive of race, the name of a pagan Celtic god and geographically descriptive.

THE family name of Moore and its variations are so entangled and so general that, though they originated in virtually all of the countries of Europe, and from a number of different sources, they must be considered as a single group.

Perhaps the largest classification of the group traces back ultimately as a given name to a certain Christian martyr, an officer of a Roman legion recruited of Thebans, who, being a Moor or Moroccan, bore the name of Mauritius. The heroic circumstances of his death and that of his companions at the hands of other Roman soldiery made the name popular among the Christians and was spread by them throughout Europe.

In Switzerland the name became Mauritz; in Italian, Maurizia; in German, Moritz; in old French, Meurisse; in Anglo-Saxon, Morris; and in Norman French, Maurice. It remains today as Maurice.

Then, in virtually all these countries, it gradually became adopted as a family name.

But the name was also brought into northern European countries by seafaring Moors themselves, some of whom settled in Normandy, whence the name was brought into England with William the Conqueror and was later taken into Ireland by the Norman invaders. But in that country the name was already established as derived from the Celt's name for the god of war, Mavors, and the clan name of Moriertagh (Moriarty). In Wales it appeared as Mawrrwyce, also from Mavors.

And in England it also developed from the word moor, meaning swampy ground, whence the variation Atmore.

The first Moore in America was Abel Moore, who came to New London, Ct., in 1675, and held the important and respected position of constable in the little town. After a strenuous civic life, he retired to the country and became a thriving farmer.

His children settled all through the fertile Connecticut Valley and cultivated the thriving farms that are still in the possession of the family.

A near relative, Abraham, came to Salem in 1657 and started a shipbuilding industry. He became very wealthy and left a great heritage to his children, who later settled in Charlestown and Andover.

Tomorrow—Campbell.

He Must Try Again

Mr. Meeke looked up from his evening paper with a glint in his eyes.

"No one can expect to learn all there is to know in a lifetime," said he, "but it's all wrong for any man to assume that his education is ever finished. Now, this article here on the stars"——

He fumbled with his glasses, while his wife, Henrietta, eyed him thoughtfully.

"It just shows how little I knew on the subject," he went on. "But I have still time to remedy the fault. I will take up the study of astronomy."

"That won't do, Alfred," commented his better half in cold, hard tones. "You will have to think up some better excuse than that for staying out late at nights."

Care and Responsibility.

THE responsibility attached to the preparing of a remedy for infants and children is undoubtedly greater than that imposed upon the manufacturer of remedies for adults whose system is sufficiently strong to counteract, for a time at least, any injurious drug. It is well to observe that Castoria is prepared today, as it has been for the past 40 years, under the personal supervision of Mr. Chas. H. Fletcher.

What have makers of imitations and substitutes at stake? What are their responsibilities? To whom are they answerable? They spring up today, scatter their nefarious wares broadcast, and disappear tomorrow.

Could each mother see the painstaking care with which the prescription for Fletcher's Castoria is prepared: could they read the innumerable testimonials from grateful mothers, they would never listen to the subtle pleadings and false arguments of those who would offer an imitation of, or substitute for, the tried and true Fletcher's Castoria.

CASTORIA

A Word About Truth.

"Great is Truth, and mighty above all things." So says the Old Testament, yet it is equally true to-day. Truth shows no favors, fears no enemies.

From the inception of Fletcher's Castoria, Truth has been the watchword, and to the conscientious adherence to this motto in the preparation of Fletcher's Castoria as well as in its advertising is due the secret of its popular demand.

All imitations, all substitutes, all just-as-good preparations lack the element of Truth, lack the righteousness of being, lack all semblance even in the words of those who would deceive.

And you! Mothers, mothers with the fate of the World in your hands, can you be deceived? Certainly not.

Fletcher's Castoria is prepared for Infants and Children. It is distinctly a remedy for the little-ones. The BABY'S need for a medicine to take the place of Castor Oil, Paregoric and Soothing Syrups was the sole thought that led to its discovery. Never try to correct BABY'S troubles with a medicine that you would use for yourself.

Interesting Romance With a Young and Beautiful Orphan as Heroine

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

CHAPTER XXI.

THE organ[illegible] fitted well, and Miss [illegible] ordered it sent home for [illegible].

"Charge it to Mr. Arthur Paige," she directed, adding in a low tone to her companion "[illegible] is from your uncle and me, my dear."

"Thank you, auntie!" the girl murmured. "You are very kind."

"I mean to be," Miss Cynthia said honestly.

She believed her own words. We usually believe what we want to—and she had persuaded herself that all she had done was [illegible] we fare. Certainly the girl would be safe as the wife of a prosperous gentleman. As the wife of a youth like Robert [illegible] future would be most precarious.

When their errands completed, aunt and niece [illegible] their steps homeward, the older woman spoke her mind.

"It is a great pity that as nice a girl as Mary Jameson should be so shallow."

She paused, but Barbara made no response.

"Don't you agree with me?" Cynthia asked.

"Why, [illegible] Barbara [illegible] do not think [illegible] Mary [illegible] shallow [illegible] That's all."

"Yes, and she [illegible]. Now, for instance, [illegible] that she [illegible] or pique you [illegible] had urged [illegible] yesterday [illegible] his promise [illegible]

Barbara Agrees

"That was a [illegible]. Fortunately, it could [illegible] Robert's [illegible] you. And there was no reason why he should [illegible] where he wished. So why that note of triumph [illegible] Mary's [illegible]

"If, on the other hand, she had been so silly as to suppose that you had any sentimental affair with Robert—her [illegible] might have distressed [illegible] naturally too. For then [illegible] lence as to where he had dined [illegible] at the last moment [illegible] that he would have arrived even later had no another girl reminded him of his duty to you—would have proved his disloyalty to you.

"But, had he owed any obligation to you, he would have told you that he intended to dine with Mary. That would have been his [illegible] and his pleasure as well—for a man who loves a woman tells [illegible] what he does. As it was, it made no difference to you.

"So, [illegible] case Mary exceeded information would have been [illegible] was, as it happens, a silly boast. But it might have [illegible] Robert and you cared for each other. Do you not agree with me?"

Barbara answered promptly: "Yes, [illegible] you are entirely right. Yes, [illegible] to Mary. I am sure she was only thoughtless."

"Perhaps. Anyone who talks as much as she does is bound to say more than is wise. I was glad to tell her that Robert's visit was made at his own request and [illegible] you had other and more [illegible] affairs on hand than [illegible] at home [illegible] pleased him [illegible] appearance. Wasn't [illegible] assertion too [illegible]?"

"Yes," the girl admitted for the second time, "you were entirely right, Auntie."

Miss [illegible] was content and occupied the remainder of the time [illegible] reached home [illegible] the various viands [illegible] to prepare for tomorrow's [illegible].

[illegible] in the morning when [illegible] mounted the veranda steps. The [illegible] had drawn the fragrance from the honeysuckle blossoms and the air was heavy with the scent.

Barbara gave vent to a muttered exclamation.

"What is the matter?" her aunt asked.

"The smell of the honeysuckle is too sweet. It makes me feel sick," with a slight shudder.

"Why, child, I thought you loved it [illegible]. You always seemed to."

Weighing the Evidence

"So I did until now," was the rejoinder.

Then Barbara went indoors and up to her own room.

When she had removed her hat and gloves and put them carefully away she sat down in the chair by the window and thought out all that had happened.

Robert had had an engagement to dine with Mary Jameson and he had said nothing about it. He would have been with Barbara [illegible] he had not been with Mary. And Mary had had to remind him of his engagement with Barbara or he would not have come as soon as he did.

Why had he not mentioned all these things to Barbara if he loved her? And here she winced. He had sung for Mary, had stayed to sing when he might have been with the girl who loved him, who had almost telephoned to him at [illegible] hotel asking him to come earlier than he [illegible] expected.

She [illegible] been a fool. He was a [illegible]. Yet [illegible] he had written as he had promised to, perhaps she might give him a chance to explain. But, no! She was not going to marry him anyhow! Uncle Arthur did not wish [illegible]. For that reason she must not love Robert. Uncle Arthur [illegible] had not been right.

[illegible] suggested that Barbara [illegible] be engaged to John Brandon [illegible] Mary [illegible] found herself [illegible] suppose that Brandon [illegible] was flirting with Barbara.

Love [illegible] at the first provocation [illegible] love [illegible] kind [illegible] selfish [illegible]

Faith and Hope

And with your love put faith. Calm-eyed and level-eyed. And with that [illegible] hope [illegible] sweet gay [illegible] hope. Throw [illegible] and for good measure [illegible] a few [illegible] from the [illegible] throw them in [illegible].

And when you [illegible] and the chest is [illegible] your hand into the hand of the man who loves you, take the chest with you and go somewhere together and make in this harried, worried, restless world a haven and a shelter and a snug harbor against all the winds that blow and all the storms that rage, and call it "H-O-M-E."

Then you will have a real hope chest and one of honest meaning and of good import.

Worth Knowing

Red in the face with hurry and excitement the suburban resident rushed into the police station and exclaimed:

"They say you have caught the man who broke into our house the night before last?"

"Yes," replied the sergeant. "Do you want to see him?"

"Do I want to?" replied the burglar's victim. "I want to know how he got into the house without waking my wife. I've been trying to do that for the last ten years."

The Man Women Like Most

By Beatrice Fairfax

ARE you a "man's man," with a longing for some magic to make yourself a favorite with the fair sex as well? Do you get on splendidly with the boys and find yourself blushing and stammering whenever there are women in the vicinity?

Are you one of the men who write to me daily and something after this fashion:

"Why is it that girls don't pay any attention to me? I never seem to have anything to say to them, and so when I get out in society I [illegible] my brains and get more and more miserable all the time I can't make myself interesting and fascinating like some fellows I see around, and when I watch the air of assurance and the [illegible] way they handle themselves and [illegible] they make I go [illegible] into my shell and [illegible] more to manage to [illegible]. What shall I do to get the girls to like me?"

Or perhaps this letter comes a bit nearer to your situation:

"I've saved a bit of money and am ready to settle down in a cosy little home provided I can find the right girl. But I can't seem to get any girl to look at me. They all go for the fellows who fancy well and [illegible] jokes and are in the company. Some fellows who are looking for nothing but amusement seem to take with every girl in sight.

"Here I am, looking for a dear little wife and I can't find a single girl to pay any attention to me. Can you figure out why none of the girls look at me? I try to show that I am in dead earnest, but everything I do seems to drive them farther away from me. What are [illegible] for?"

Rather Astonishing

It's astonishing in this place called a man's world, how many masculine persons are asking that same question. Girls have a way of saying that men—the lords of creation—have only to pick and choose to get just the girl they want. But the facts seem to indicate that there are plenty of lonely men looking for the right girl and failing to find her.

Why should the sensible, worth-while, serious-minded man who wants to give his best find that no one notices him or whether he is offering his best or his second best or nothing at all?

The answer is just as likely to be one thing as another—it generally lies in one of the two extremes, however, indicated in the letters I've quoted. Shyness—or bold brusqueness.

The tender mothering type of woman often takes pity on shyness and longs to comfort the man who is ill at ease and unhappy. But he probably has his eye on some gay, dancing butterfly of a girl who doesn't even know that such an awkward hobble-de-hoy of a man exists.

The man who reaches out eagerly toward every woman who comes along, probably repels them all either by the force of his feelings or by the impression he gives that any girl will do for an unselective person such as himself. His one man stuff is likely, however, to offend by its awkwardness. A wolf may have a certain strong and magnificent grace, which attracts even those it terrifies. But a St. Bernard puppy, which knocks everything over in its rough gambolings, is either ludicrous or just plain offensive.

Given charm and the magnetism which are the gifts of the fairies no man need worry about his attractiveness. Instead he's likely to find himself defending breach of promise suits if he doesn't watch out.

But the average, ordinary "plain citizen" who longs to win love and who's been too busy learning to make his way in the world to learn much about love-making, what about him? Is his awkwardness or matter of fact ness or shyness going to shut him off forever from winning the thing he would so prize—a woman's devotion?

The Basic Strength

Not a bit of it. For in the last analysis there is one thing fine women admire above all else in men and finding this they give devotion and adoration in full measure. The thing a normal, healthy, lovable girl cannot resist when once she has seen the splendid force of it in full working order is strength.

I don't mean what is known as cave-man stuff. I'm not quoting the saying about "treat 'em rough." I'm referring to the deeper basic, compelling strength that comes from character, that results in reliability and dependability.

True Art

With frowning brows a famous artist was transferring to canvas the beautiful Highland scene before him, and furiously wishing that the spectator who was breathing down the back of his neck would go away. But the spectator was a "sticker." "Man," he said presently, "did ye never think tae try photygraphy?" "No!" snapped the artist, as he went on painting. "I wunner at that noo," said the spectator. "It's a hantle quicker as weel's bein' mair like the place."

The Entertaining Shopman

Two women, one of whom carried a baby, asked a salesman to show them some carpets. It was a hot day, but the salesman cheerfully showed roll after roll until perspiration streamed from his face. Finally one of the women asked the other if it were not time to go. "Not just yet," was the answer, with the whispered explanation. "Baby likes to see him roll them out, and we've plenty of time to catch the train!"

"The Barn That Wasn't!"

There had been a storm during the night, and next morning everybody was out to discover what damage had been done.

Two farmers chanced to meet at the boundary fence of the adjoining properties.

"Well," said one of them, "she shook things up out my way, to be sure. By the way, Henry," he added, "did that new barn of yours get damaged?"

"I can't say," replied the second farmer. "I haven't found it yet."

ABOUT OUR GOOD FRIEND

Moore

Copyright, 1920, by The Ledger Syndicate

VARIATIONS—Moor, Mohr, Morris, Morice, Morrice, Fitzmorris, Moriarty, Moriarity, Atmore, Atmoor, Morrison.

RACIAL ORIGIN—All European.

SOURCES—Variously a given name, descriptive of race, the name of a pagan Celtic god and geographically descriptive.

THE family name of Moore and its variations are so entangled and so general that, though they originated in virtually all of the countries of Europe, and from a number of different sources, they must be considered as a single group.

Perhaps the largest classification of the group traces back ultimately as a given name to a certain Christian martyr, an officer of a Roman legion recruited of Thebans, who, being a Moor or Moroccan, bore the name of Mauritius. The heroic circumstances of his death and that of his companions at the hands of other Roman soldiery made the name popular among the Christians and was spread by them throughout Europe.

In Switzerland the name became Mauritz; in Italian, Maurizia; in German, Moritz; in old French, Meurisse; in Anglo-Saxon, Morris; and in Norman French, Maurice. It remains today as Maurice.

Then, in virtually all these countries, it gradually became adopted as a family name.

But the name was also brought into northern European countries by seafaring Moors themselves, some of whom settled in Normandy, whence the name was brought into England with William the Conqueror and was later taken into Ireland by the Norman invaders. But in that country the name was already established as derived from the Celt's name for the god of war, Mavors, and the clan name of Moriertagh (Moriarty). In Wales it appeared as Mawrrwyce, also from Mavors.

And in England it also developed from the word moor, meaning swampy ground, whence the variation Atmore.

The first Moore in America was Abel Moore, who came to New London, Ct., in 1675, and held the important and respected position of constable in the little town. After a strenuous civic life, he retired to the country and became a thriving farmer.

His children settled all through the fertile Connecticut Valley and cultivated the thriving farms that are still in the possession of the family.

A near relative, Abraham, came to Salem in 1657 and started a shipbuilding industry. He became very wealthy and left a great heritage to his children, who later settled in Charlestown and Andover.

Tomorrow—Campbell.

He Must Try Again

Mr. Meeke looked up from his evening paper with a glint in his eyes.

"No one can expect to learn all there is to know in a lifetime," said he, "but it's all wrong for any man to assume that his education is ever finished. Now, this article here on the stars"——

He fumbled with his glasses, while his wife, Henrietta, eyed him thoughtfully.

"It just shows how little I knew on the subject," he went on. "But I have still time to remedy the fault. I will take up the study of astronomy."

"That won't do, Alfred," commented his better half, in cold, hard tones. "You will have to think up some better excuse than that for staying out late at nights."

Care and Responsibility.

THE responsibility attached to the preparing of a remedy for infants and children is undoubtedly greater than that imposed upon the manufacturer of remedies for adults whose system is sufficiently strong to counteract, for a time at least, any injurious drug. It is well to observe that Castoria is prepared today, as it has been for the past 40 years, under the personal supervision of Mr. Chas. H. Fletcher.

What have makers of imitations and substitutes at stake? What are their responsibilities? To whom are they answerable? They spring up today, scatter their nefarious wares broadcast, and disappear tomorrow.

Could each mother see the painstaking care with which the prescription for Fletcher's Castoria is prepared: could they read the innumerable testimonials from grateful mothers, they would never listen to the subtle pleadings and false arguments of those who would offer an imitation of, or substitute for, the tried and true Fletcher's Castoria.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

A Word About Truth.

"Great is Truth, and mighty above all things." So says the Old Testament, yet it is equally true to-day. Truth shows no favors, fears no enemies.

From the inception of Fletcher's Castoria, Truth has been the watchword, and to the conscientious adherence to this motto in the preparation of Fletcher's Castoria as well as in its advertising is due the secret of its popular demand.

All imitations, all substitutes, all just-as-good preparations lack the element of Truth, lack the righteousness of being, lack all semblance even in the words of those who would deceive.

And you! Mothers, mothers with the fate of the World in your hands, can you be deceived? Certainly not.

Fletcher's Castoria is prepared for Infants and Children. It is distinctly a remedy for the little-ones. The BABY'S need for a medicine to take the place of Castor Oil, Paregoric and Soothing Syrups was the sole thought that led to its discovery. Never try to correct BABY'S troubles with a medicine that you would use for yourself.

What New Rent Laws Mean to Tenants

By MARTIN HAYS

Representative from Brighton

The law giving courts the right to use their discretion in granting stays of sentence in eviction cases is a necessary complement to the 25 per cent increase law. Without this the 25 per cent increase act would lose much of its value, if not, indeed, all of it.

Yet the discretionary stay of proceedings law is perhaps the most puzzling in its effects of any of the five new laws. It does not provide that the court must grant six months' stay of proceedings or for that matter any stay. It simply gives the courts the right to use their discretion in the matter. Every individual case must be judged on its merits. There will undoubtedly be conflicting opinions by the courts even on identical cases.

CITES PERPLEXING CASE.

Therefore, in expressing opinions on this law even to a greater degree than on any of the other new laws, it must be borne in mind that I am simply expressing a personal opinion. I cannot, nor can anyone else, guarantee that the courts will find in agreement with my opinion.

There is under this law even one case in which I am unwilling to express any opinion, one problem in which court findings setting up a precedent must be awaited.

I refer to such a case as this:

A. is a tenant. He receives legal notice to quit, let us say September 1. Before that date B., another tenant, leases the premises now occupied by A. B.'s tenancy to start September 1. A. takes his case to court. He has been unable to find a new apartment. He has no place to which he can move. If he is evicted he is homeless.

On September 1 B. moves to A.'s apartment. If the court decides that A.'s claim is a just one and permits him to continue to occupy the apartment, B. is homeless. If the court decides that B. may have A.'s apartment A. is homeless. For which party will the court decide?

This is a riddle no one can solve until such a case has been tried in court. Then the court will establish a precedent.

I believe from present indications that September 1 and October 1 will bring many such cases to light. Wholesale evictions and attempts at evictions will be the order of the day, I think.

If every tenant served with an eviction notice would take the matter into court this would at least delay the confusion which must ensue. But that tenants will not do so is obvious. There are many tenants quite willing to lease someone else's apartmen over his head.

Questions I have been asked concerning this new law include:

MUST PAY RENT TO COURT.

Does a tenant granted a six months' stay, have to pay rent during that period? He does. The court sets a fair rent and this rent must be paid to the court. Failure to pay as directed will result in the stay being withdrawn.

Will the court grant a six months' stay in eviction cases brought for non payment of rent? No.

If a landlord sets up an eviction in the expectation that the tenant will offer to pay more rent, how can the tenant defeat this expectation? By applying for a six months' stay of sentence from the eviction, in which case the rental is set by the court.

TO FIX MINIMUM WAGES FOR WOMEN

A wage board of fifteen members to determine minimum raise of wages for women employed in the manufacture of food preparations and minor lines of confectionery will be organized under the direction of the State division of minimum wage of the Department of Labor and Industries.

A meeting for the purpose of explaining the work of the wage board and of securing nominations for their representatives on the board will be held in the State House, room 166, tomorrow evening.

COPPERS DULL AND LOWER

Boston Market Mixed in Price Movement During Morning; Curb Is Weak

The Boston market was somewhat weak at the opening, changes being downward as a rule on initial transactions. But early business was too limited to clearly define the tone. There was a slight improvement during the first hour and the list was irregular as to gains and losses during the morning. Declines continued to outnumber gains, however. Coppers were dull and weak. Packing issues were mixed. International Products showing the largest morning loss recorded for the list. Fluctuations were as narrow as a rule as the market. International Cement advanced the most and made the gain at the opening.

Stocks to advance a point or more were International Cement, Simms Magneto and Pacific Mills, while smaller gains were made by United Shoe, Ventura, Swift & Co., Libby, Bigheart, North Butte, Carson Hill and Eastern Manufacturing.

At its morning lowest International Products was off 2½, while issues to recede a point or more included Boston Elevated, Mohawk and U. S. Smelting. Issues to sell fractionally lower included American Telephone, American Woolen preferred, Calumet & Arizona, Copper Range, Osceola, Swift International and Nipissing.

CURB MARKET WAS WEAK.

Starting dull and narrow, the Curb market was weak on the whole during the morning. Trading was almost wholly confined to low priced issues during the forenoon. Strong issues at the opening included Boston & Montana, Eureka, Hecla Divide and Mutual Trust, while weak ones were Superior Oil, Manhattan, Daddy and Crystal. High priced oils did not "come out."

At the end of an hour Eureka had lost its initial gain of 4 cents and was off 1 cent at 79, while Mutual, which had opened 3 cents higher, was off 3 cents at 55 cents. Verde Mines was off 1 cent at 19 cents.

Cotton Market Opening

New York, June 10.—The cotton market was steady at the start, opening prices being: July, 38.50 to 38.62, unchanged to up 2; October, 35.55 to 35.58, off 2 to 1; March, 33.39, off 3; May, 32.88, up 8.

Oils Improve and Alcohols Advance, While Steels and Motors Are Mixed

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were irregular in New York at noon, being above the lowest and below the highest morning level. The market had a good undertone and verged on strength. It was quiet, first hour transactions totaling about 150,000 shares. Call loans were renewed at 7 per cent. Barrett featured the list for gains, advancing five points.

Rails were weak and sugars were strong. Oils improved during the forenoon and alcohols held gains well. Steels and motors were uncertain as to trend all the morning. Gains and losses were fractional as a rule.

MARKET IRREGULAR AT START.

The market was irregular at the opening, but the tone was weak and a majority of leaders were lower. Equipments, rails and oils were lower as a rule, while sugars, alcohols and a number of specialties advanced. Steels and motors were mixed as to price changes. Trading was of moderate volume and more interest was shown in convention reports than in the fluctuation of stocks. In fact, speculators are awaiting definite intimation as to who will be the Chicago nominee. Active speculation is looked for then. Belief is general that it will be a bull movement, although possibly not long sustained. Barrett made the largest early gain. Chicago & Northwestern receded the most. For the first half hour prices had a declining tendency. During the next thirty minutes the trend was in the other direction. Oils and steels became strong. Liberty bonds were weak.

CROP REPORT FAVORABLE.

The report of crop conditions on June 1 was considered favorable in view of calamitous predictions made during the Spring. If the wheat yield aggregates close to 8,000,000 bushels, famine talk is foolish. There is as much chance of the crop being much larger as there is of its diminishing.

It is said that the money situation is a trifle easier, and that after June 15 tax collections and government interest payments there should be much less tension. The disbursement day is nigh, and by the latter part of next week the strain which has been severely felt all this month may be expected to relax. It has affected business more than the stock market.

While industries are less active than for several years, it is hoped that all shops and mills will be running full in the fall. Price cutting this Summer ought to dispose of about all the merchandise now on the market and create demand that will tax productive facilities to capacity. In some sections inclement weather has been very harmful to retail trade.

Japan's Foreign Trade

Commercial reports indicate that Japan's exports in May amounted to about $95,790,000, while imports totalled around $146,000,000. Exports for the first five months of this year approximated $477,300,000, and imports were close to $697,400,000. In other words, so far in 1920, the trade balance has been against Japan to the extent of $220,100,000.

Less Buying of Luxuries

According to reports by Sears, Roebuck & Company, and the Montgomery Ward concern, the public that obtains goods through mail order houses is buying more necessities and fewer luxuries.

City and County Loans

Bristol County, Mass., will receive proposals until 9 a. m. June 15, for $40,000 of 8 per cent. coupon "tuberculosis hospital" notes, dated June 15, 1920, and payable June 15, 1921.

Brockton, Mass., has sold a temporary loan of $200,000, in anticipation of revenue, dated June 11 and payable April 12, 1921, to Salomon Bros. & Hutzler at 6.18 per cent.

BOSTON FINANCIAL NOTES.

It is expected that Island Oil will be listed on the New York Stock Exchange today. The company's oil shipments for Mexico during May approximated 1,000,000 barrels. For April and March they were 841,177 and 546,000 barrels respectively.

Alvin B. Hathaway, formerly vice-president, has been elected president of the Cambridge Trust Company, while George H. Cox, who resigned the presidency, is now chairman of its board of directors.

During May production by the Nipissing Mines Company, the largest silver producer in Canada, had a gross value of $335,597 and profit for the month is estimated at $225,000. It has a profit and loss surplus of about $6,000,000. It received an average price of $1.13 an ounce for 1919 shipments.

Newly chartered Massachusetts corporations include the Earnshaw Knitting Company of Boston, capital $500,000; New Hampshire Advertising & Sealing of Worcester, $100,000; N. Y. Advertising & Sealing of Worcester, $200,000; Ajax Motor Sales Company, Inc., of Boston, $100,000; James Daniels Company of Boston, $150,000, boots; Walter W. Hodder Company of Boston, $150,000; Quaker Braid Company of Attleboro, $100,000.

PRICE OF SILVER STILL GOING DOWN

The price of silver is still going down, it selling at 81 cents, off 3 cents, in New York yesterday and being down to 45⅝d in London. It has dropped a shilling an ounce in the latter market within a week. While the decline has been attributed to sales by Orientals, it appears that another important factor is European liquidation. Statements read:

"There have been heavy sales lately of German and French silver coins in London, and that city is said to have shipped nearly 1,000,000 ounces of this silver to the United States in recent weeks."

"Germany had some 10,500,000 ounces of silver available for open market disposition at recent prices."

Consumption of Whiskey

That a good deal of whiskey is being consumed, although prohibition is in force, is shown by withdrawals from bonded warehouses. They approximated 4,000,000 gallons a month for both March and April. A good deal was obtained, it is stated, on foreign permits. The amount of distilled spirits, including whiskey and gin, in bond on March 1 was 61,370,991 gallons.

June 15 Payments

On June 15 payments by the New York Federal Reserve Bank as interest on certificates of indebtedness, Liberty bonds and Victory notes will amount to about $50,000,000. The government will obtain on that day, however, about $1,000,000,000 in income and excess profits taxes.

COPPER RESOLD BY JAPANESE INTERESTS

The latest development in the copper market is the resale of metal bought on Japanese account. It is offered at from 18¼ to 18½ cents a pound. The asking price by producers is 19 cents for this month and next and 19½ cents for later deliveries. The financial crisis in Japan is responsible for reselling.

It is disturbing the market, which is already overstocked. It is estimated by one authority that the surplus of refined copper amounts to 650,000,000 pounds. Foreign demand is quiet and domestic requirements are small.

Will Issue More Stock

The stockholders of the MacAndrews & Forbes Company have authorized an increase in the capital from $10,000,000 to $13,000,000.

Stockholders of the Manati Sugar Company have approved of the proposed increase in the corporation's common stock from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 and in preferred from $3,500,000 to $5,000,000.

Deflation Traveling West

When interviewed in Chicago, President Charles H. Sabin of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York said: "The deflation in high prices, which apparently has started in the East, will travel westward. The more diversified industries of the Atlantic coast States catch stagnation first principally, but the deflation's extension is only a matter of time. I look for no sharp or big drop in prices, however, for some time. Money is tight all over."

They are sold in 107 of our own stores direct from our factory to wearer at only one profit. All manufacturing and middlemen's profits are eliminated. W. L. Douglas $9.00 and $10.00 shoes for style, comfort and service are absolutely the best shoe values in this country for the money. The smart styles are the leaders in the fashion centers of America. W. L. Douglas name and the retail price are stamped on the bottom of all shoes before they leave the factory, which protects the wearer against high prices and unreasonable profits.

If you could visit W. L. Douglas extensive and well equipped factory at Brockton, Mass., and see for yourself the high grade leathers used and how carefully the shoes are made by the highest paid, skilled shoemakers, under the supervision of experienced men, all working with an honest determination to make the best shoes for the price that money can buy, you would understand why money can be saved by wearing W. L. Douglas shoes.

W. L. Douglas shoes are for sale by over 9000 shoe dealers besides our own stores. If your local dealer cannot supply you, take no other make. Order direct from the factory. Send for booklet telling how to order shoes by mail, postage free.

CAUTION.—Insist upon having W. L. Douglas shoes. The name and price is plainly stamped on the sole. Be careful to see that it has not been changed or mutilated.

Foreign Exchange

PROFITS of 200% have been made by investors who bought German and Austrian currency or bonds last February. The substantial recovery already made in Mark and Krone prices indicates their eventual return to normal. There is still a profit possibility of several hundred percent in Marks and nearly two thousand percent in Kronen.

BONDS of the principal German and Austrian Cities are paying their interest promptly, are worth par in these countries, and increase in dollar value as Exchange rates improve.

CIRCULAR containing full description of the unusual opportunities for profit in German and Austrian Exchange and Bonds mailed on request.

LEARNERS ON

SMALL BOOTS, GAITERS, ARCTICS AND GUM SHOES

Experienced Workers Earn $28 to $32 Weekly
Beginners Paid $13.50, for 6 Weeks, While Learning

EARN BIG WAGES and enjoy an independent income

Makers after training can earn $28 to $32 weekly on team work, or $20 to $28 on individual tickets. We pay you $13.50 while learning. Piece work rates after that time. If you are looking for a permanent position with a firm which offers rapid advancement, ideal living conditions and industrial democracy, this is your opportunity.

Special dividend plan a possibility.

We furnish comfortable rooms and meals at less than cost. Free life insurance, hospital, recreation and club rooms. Light, easy, hand work of an especially congenial character.

It will pay you to get in touch with us.

MARRIED COUPLES

We also have good paying positions for men, $3.50 per day while learning, and average from $30 to $38 weekly when experienced.

Here is a splendid opportunity for young married couples who are in a position to board for a time to learn a trade and earn and save money towards a home of their own.

We are now building over fifty homes, and will consider renting or selling them on easy terms to large families where there are four or more workers.

This is a splendid chance for responsible and serious folks to acquire a home of their own at a cost less than ordinary rents!

We are located in a small town in Connecticut, 165 miles from Boston, where we will advance railroad fare to serious workers if they desire.

See us any day until Friday of this week, between 10 A. M. and 1 P. M. Ask for Mr. Schmid. If you cannot call, write

MEASURES THAT WOULD CURE MOST OF THE TROUBLES AND TENDENCIES WHICH DISTRESS AND ALARM US TODAY

(1) To nominate for the Presidency by direct nomination and to elect by popular vote.
(2) To elect the Cabinet officers and make them responsible to Congress.
(3) To deprive the President of the power of patronage; to put all public offices as nearly as possible under Civil Service, and have appointments made by a committee of Congress.
(4) To elect Federal Judges, including the Supreme Court Justices, by popular vote.
(5) To apply the Initiative, the Referendum and the Recall to national matters.

Why the Financial Powers in Control at Chicago Oppose Johnson for President

The financial powers of the United States are at present in full control of the Republican National Convention at Chicago, as shown by the retention of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge as the permanent chairman and the selection of Senator Watson of Indiana as chairman of the important Platform Committee.

If the 984 delegates can be held in subjection over today and tomorrow, these financial powers will make a platform and choose a candidate exactly to their liking. They will go as far as they dare in making a negative "stand pat" platform today and in naming for President tomorrow a trustworthy reactionary.

The financial powers opposing Johnson know that he is not a red radical.

They know that he was elected Governor of California in 1910 by 22,000 plurality, re-elected in 1914 by 188,505 plurality, and elected United States Senator in 1916 by the unprecedented majority of 296,815 on the same day that Woodrow Wilson, Democrat, carried California by only 3,773.

They know that Governor Johnson's rise in California was due to his successful fight to put corrupt corporations out of politics. They know that as Governor he manifested the same courage and determination in putting I. W. W. anarchists out of business as he did in putting predatory corporations out of politics.

The supreme financial powers in the United States, now in control of the Chicago convention, know that there are millions of progressive voters like Johnson in both the Republican and Democratic parties.

They know that these voters are looking with earnest longing to both or either of the old parties to give them a candidate whom they can trust.

The qualities of courage, force, independence—THE POWER TO THINK AND ACT STRAIGHT—which won the best as well as the most people to his support during his two terms as Governor of California, made successful opposition to him by anyone or by any party impossible. The same qualities have made him in two short years leader in the Senate.

Then why do the combined financial powers of the United States now in control of the convention oppose him?

Because they know by experience in California that he will do what he says, and what he says is this in his speech at the Chicago Auditorium Monday night:

> There are radicals in our country. There are the few who preach the overthrow of government by force and violence, and who we would all make feel the heavy hand of the law. Every normal American would drastically deal with these. We would make them realise that government is supreme in this land and we would put them where they could not affect government or injure organized society.
> But there is another class of radicals, too, who breed the blatant ones, and who, because of their power and their influence, their cunning and their entrenched positions, are far more dangerous.
> I would deal in like manner with both classes; not only would I employ the power of the State against the extremist of the soap box preaching overthrow of government by force and violence, but with equal vigor I'd endeavor to reach and suppress and punish the radical of great wealth and power who endangers the Republic by cunning and dishonest practices, and insidiously undermines society by illegitimate exploitation.

As to the League of Nations—President Wilson's plan of world government by an international committee of nine diplomatists—financiers sitting in Europe—Johnson put his whole platform in forty-five words at the same Chicago meeting:

> This nation has always heeded humanity's call and civilization's cry, and we shall not cease to heed. All that we insist on is when the crisis occurs, you decide and I decide and the American people decide, and that no European nation decide for us.

The imperialistic money powers that seek control of world trade and politics are not afraid of what a patriotic American like Johnson will fail to do for suffering Europe if he becomes President of the United States.

They are afraid of what he WILL do to them.

What Is the Presidency Worth to Big Business?

Senator Borah, in his speech at the Chicago Auditorium on Monday night, put in few words by a simple story the great issue that will dominate all others on the stump in the campaign if General Wood or Governor Lowden is nominated by the convention.

Let me tell you, he said, an ancient story. When Pertinax was slain in Rome, one gentleman thought he had to be Emperor and bid, in our money, about $900,000 for it, and another gentleman bid $900,500, and then auctioned and bid against one another until they got it up to $2,500,000 in our money, and it was knocked off to Julianus, and they actually sold the Emperorship of Rome for $2,500,000. Now, my friends, we are not going to sell the Presidency of the United States for $1,500,000. That is too cheap.

You think, perhaps, that I am a little severe about this matter, but I am perfectly calm, and I am moderate in my view compared with what the American electorate will be when they pass upon this question. We will leave this convention in three or four days, and we will go out to see the men on the farm and in the factory and men and women wherever they mingle their thoughts with their labors, and we will deal with those who believe that the Presidency of the United States should be in its securing against any possible suspicion of corruption of any kind.

I am not saying this because I have any fear of the Republican convention naming either one of these gentlemen (Wood or Lowden). I am saying it because I think it utterly discreditable to the Republican convention that it would permit their names to be considered after they had attempted to control that convention by the sheer use of money.

You may differ with me as to whether Mr. Johnson should be President, but you certainly as Republicans cannot differ with me as to the fact that the man you nominate should, like Caesar's wife, be above suspicion in these affairs.

No National Convention that was ever held has caused such lavish use of money in the preliminary campaign as the present convention. That a small group of business men not hitherto prominent in politics should have been willing to spend two million dollars in organizing General Wood's campaign, and that Governor Lowden, who made a large private fortune by selling his business to the Steel Trust, and is allied by marriage with the great Pullman estate, should have been willing to spend $440,000 of his own money to advertise his own merits and to buy delegates in the South, shows the need in this country of a corrupt practices act with teeth.

"Big Business" resents the candidacy of General Wood partly because it is backed by an outside syndicate.

But it highly approves the candidacy of Governor Lowden, because he is "one of its own kind"—a man who would never have to be told by Big Business what to do, because, having achieved great success by the methods of Big Business, he is already under bonds to see that the existing order of things is not changed, and that nothing shall interfere with the ways of Big Business.

The prize of controlling the next President of the United States is well described by Senor V. Blasco Ibanez in a dispatch from Chicago, where the famous Spanish writer and historian is now a spectator:

> The power that will be intrusted to this man is so enormous that ninety-eight years ago Napoleon would have deemed it inconceivable. That man is going to direct the destinies of a nation that is at the same time the greatest industrial and agricultural power of the earth and the possessor of most of the wealth of the world. Whoever that man may be, general or merchant, professor or captain of industry, the 110,000,000 of human beings who elect him to that high office will follow his lead. And all the sovereigns of the earth, emperors, kings, princes and presidents, will turn to the White House for inspiration as they formerly turned to the men who ruled at London, Paris or Berlin. The political centre of gravity of the world has moved. It is located now in Washington, the capital of the United States of America.

Open Forum and the Recent "Red" Hysteria

The Churchman is the national journal of the Protestant Episcopal Church in America. Recently it contained an interesting editorial comment upon a defence by the Rev. Dr. Percy Stickney Grant of New York of his open forum.

Dr. Grant came into the favorable view of the whole country by his fearless demonstration of the manufactured hysteria against the alleged Red revolutionists and the barbarous and unlawful way that they were treated in the course of Attorney-General Palmer's campaign for the Presidency. Dr. Grant's attitude caused great commotion in the Episcopal Church. His conduct of the forum was put in issue and, according to newspaper accounts, he was threatened with disciplinary measures. How he sought and won his vindication, The Churchman tells in two accounts of the episode as follows:

> As the members of the New York convention filed down to luncheon on the second day of the convention in Synod House last week on every hand was heard the comment "the greatest speech ever heard in a New York convention." This was the impression created by the address of Dr. Percy Stickney Grant in defence of the open forum movement. Dr. Parks in taking the platform after luncheon said: "I have been converted to the open forum. I did not understand it."
> The triumph was that a convention which one of the lay members had planned to put on record as opposed to open forums not only endorsed them, but voted that they should be given sympathy and support.
> Again, it is not easy to make a church convention forget its luncheon hour while in contemplation of large spiritual issues. Dr. Grant did that last week in Synod Hall, New York, in what was conceded upon all hands to be a very remarkable speech. He essayed a task which would have tried the pith of any leader. Episcopal conventions like to see fair play.

Of especial interest is this admission by the organ of a great conservative church:

> The hysteria and political tension during the months of the "Red" agitation had made New York, like the rest of the country, opaque to charity, tolerance and calm judgment. It was refreshing to see a cause which had been so distorted by the press and mischief-makers get a fair hearing. It was a triumph in which everybody shared.

Thus America is recovering her poise. Our ballast is bringing us back to an even keel. But while the hysteria raged it did no credit to the intelligence of the American people or American newspapers and least of all to the honor of our National Government.

Prices Must Come Down, Says R. W. Babson

PRICES are governed by the law of supply and demand. It works like a see-saw. When demand exceeds supply, prices rise; when supply exceeds demand, prices fall. The principle is simple and fundamental. To bring prices down we must either increase supply or decrease demand.

By far the most satisfactory plan is to increase production. The most popular seems to be the latter, curtailing demand. With this principle clearly in mind, let's see what has happened during the past two or three years. Get a sound grasp of the retailer's present condition so that you can see what he is facing.

Since the armistice and the conclusion of the great contracts for the manufacture of munitions, the buying public has been largely represented by the wage earner. These incomes have been raised to the sizes of the great middle class of salaried men and women earning fixed sums from $2,000 to $3,000 per annum. Those newly rich have determined that their standing in their communities would be determined by their spending power and what they had to show for their money.

Matter of Thrift

At first they bought Victory Bonds, primarily as a matter of thrift; it was not an impecunious thrift, for behind it all was the basic desire to have some money to spend later on. Subscribing on installments to a larger amount of Federal bonds than they could normally pay for meant that a part would be sacrificed for cash to meet their new visions of comfort and the acquisition of goods and luxuries unknown to them heretofore.

When the year had gone and last Autumn had brought with it still higher wages, their standard of living was distinctly established in their hearts and ambitions, for a continuance of their happiness was paramount to their spending power. The luxuries were slowly but surely turning to necessities; the need for better Winter clothing was dominant; the money was secured by their Victory Bonds and by the nest eggs of thrift in the savings banks. The clothiers and haberdashers and shoemen and butchers and department store owners felt that buying power. They were seized with the honest desire to supply the buying public with all that was desired—the influence of demand finding a supply made a market for the best.

To Raise Price

Naturally there was an effort on the part of the unscrupulous tradesmen to raise prices to a higher level—it was a dare given by the newly-moneyed people and taken by the business men who had the goods. That was the primary cause of profiteering among many, and that type of buying public, knowing no degree, plunged into an orgy of buying, which, to economists and the frugal-minded and careful, is now interpreted as a spending orgy, the like of which the country has never before known.

Naturally, also, there has been the same unguarded spending among the business men who have won so much through their having been in the position of making the necessities among war-time goods. They honestly believe that they themselves have made the money through their own ability and business acumen, whereas they are now rich—because they stood in the path where the money flowed.

Prices Jumped

Result—Just high prices, some of them caused by higher productions costs; some by actual scarcity of materials; some of them because it was as easy—even easier—to get the higher price than the lesser.

Then a discovery was made that the pocketbook was getting down to a weekly refilling from current wages instead of a replenishment from the bank account, which in turn had been refilled by the sales of Liberty and Victory Bonds. It became necessary to conserve the funds of the family as well as of the individual. When Spring came, the necessity for a restocking of the wardrobe and the larder found more care and forethought than the buying public recognized in themselves for nearly a year.

There came the old habit of thinking twice before spending, and there also was heard the agitated whisperings that there was more profiteering than the newspapers printed. Prices, it was noised about, were going up so fast that they could not be distinguished from highway robbery. The only refuge that could be considered safe was within the home, where last year's clothing would not show its age and where temptation was dulled by due consideration of the free spending capital.

The stores, therefore, became slack of customers. Turnover and cash were dwindling—even at a standstill—and stocks were staying on the shelves far beyond the term allotted by efficiency in merchandising and financial necessity. In order to draw customers, John Wanamaker broke through the high crust of prices. A few department stores in Omaha and Western cities followed suit with high percentage cuts, and their stores were mobbed by buyers of two types, one which had been waiting for such breaks in prices, the other which was afraid that it was but temporary and who wanted to get bargains for the bargain sake.

Beneficial Cut

Such a cut allowed the salaried middle class to replenish, and today in Boston, as well as all over the country, there are prevalent prices which permit the average sensible and careful buyers to purchase their necessities and feel that they are not spending too much nor paying profiteering prices, as they are called.

Clearly demand has dwindled, and the retailer is caught between the upper and the nether mill stones. The buying attitude of the public has turned definitely and people have stopped paying top prices. The only way that the retailer can sell anything to speak of is to sell at a discount from the present price tag. On the other hand, the wholesale prices have not been affected to any great extent as yet. The retailer's goods still cost him a high wholesale price. The retailer's position is a difficult one and cannot last. One or the other of these two fields must give way. Either the public must resume its previous attitude of reckless spending and buy in volume again at old prices or the wholesale market must give way on the other hand and allow the retailer to buy his goods a little cheaper.

Retailer Accused

In the meantime, the retailer has been accused of profiteering, while the rank and file of retailers are not making the margin of profit they made in pre-war days. Personally I do not believe there has been as much profiteering as represented. Wholesale prices have risen even more than retail prices and in a large majority of cases the retailer has been squeezing through on a narrower margin than usual.

If the buying public stands pat and refuses to buy until prices are reduced the retailer cannot do anything but make himself as thin as possible by reducing stock to a minimum, then mark time until wholesale prices give way.
